Russia Warns Of War Risk

Sukarno Plans Rest-Cure Trip Despite Crisis

Indonesia Army Cancels Leaves

JAKARTA, Indonesia, Dec. 12 (AP)—President Sukarno, officially described as tired in this period of crisis over ousting the Dutch, may take a rest cure soon in India or Egypt.

This was learned today as the crisis sharpened. The Indonesian army canceled all leaves and ordered its troops to remain at hand in their barracks.

Premier Djuanda told Parliament one reason the President had postponed his proposed visit this month to Rome, Paris and Latin-American capitals was that he was "physically and mentally tired" and needed rest badly.

Drain On Energy Cited

Also cited were the drain on Sukarno's energy from internal developments in this latest squabble with the Netherlands over the future of West New Guinea, and security reasons after the recent attempt on his life.

Popular feeling is that the President's departure on a rest-cure trip might bring about the long-expected return of Mohammed Hatta, pro-Western former vice president, to the government.

(In Washington, Indonesian Ambassador Moekarto Notowidigdo, said Sukarno is leaving Indonesia for a rest in a neighboring country and Parliament Speaker Sartono, 56, will take over as acting president. Sartono is regarded as a moderate nationalist.

Sukarno Reported Prisoner

(At The Hague, the Netherlands Christian radio network broadcast: "Reports reach us tonight from a private source in Jakarta which speak of rumors circulating there that Sukarno .... is in fact a prisoner of the army. . . He is supposed to fly to India very soon, which in fact means that he will be in asylum there.")

The 56-year-old President, father of the revolution that won independence from the Dutch in 1949, was heavily guarded by 20 armed motorcyclists, eight jeeploads of shock troops and two troop carriers when he went to the place in his bullet-proof car.

(There was no substantiation of rumors heard in Amsterdam that Sukarno had been ousted by a triumvirate including Premier Djunda.

Adlai Opposes Flat Rejection Of Bulganin Bid

WASHINGTON, Dec. 12 (AP)—Adlai E. Stevenson called on President Eisenhower today to give an answer which is "affirmative in spirit" to Soviet Premier Bulganin's new letter.

Stevenson offered this advice at National Airport as he left for Chicago, ending his 25-day tour as special consultant to Secretary of State Dulles on Atlantic Pact problems.

The 1952-6 Democratic presidential nominee told newsmen he had made "some suggestions" on how Bulganin's letter might be answered but he did not disclose what they were.

Bulganin's message called for new East-West talks to outlaw war and a mutual ending of atomic-hydrogen bomb tests Jan. 1. It also warned against European countries allowing American missiles to be stationed on their territory.

A State Department spokesman said the letter, received Tuesday is under "most careful study" and will be taken up with U.S. allies. He added that the department still looks on the letter as a Soviet propaganda move on the eve of the NATO summit conference in Paris.

AFL-CIO Blasts Rackets Probe, Reelects Meany

ATLANTIC CITY, Dec. 12 (AP)—The AFL-CIO today condemned the Senate Rackets Investigating Committee as unfair, but pledged a continuing drive to rid labor's ranks of corruption.

The federation wound up its convention by reelecting President George Meany, who called on labor to "stick to its knitting" in boosting wages and organizing new members.

In final actions the convention ousted the Laundry and Bakery Workers unions on rackets and corruption charges. Earlier in the convention, the Teamsters were similarly expelled. These ousters reduced over-all AFL-CIO membership from 15 million to about 13½ million.

A convention resolution blasted the Senate committee headed by Sen. McClellan (D-Ark) for lack of objectivity and fairness in its hearings and failing to look for corruption in business with the same fervor as in labor.

"Corruption within the American labor movement is but a small part of the over-all problem in the whole of our society," the resolution said.

"While acknowledging the wrongdoings of a small minority in the leadership of a few unions we believe that objectivity requires recognition that in a society over-emphasizing material wealth more corruption will be found in business and industry."

The resolution singled out Sens. Goldwater (R-Ariz), Curtis (R-Neb) and Mundt (R-SD), members of the McClellan committee, as being politically motivated in harrassing "clean and honest unions."

Re-elected with Meany as AFL-CIO officers were Secretary-Treasurer William Schnitzler and 25 vice presidents. Elected as new vice presidents were Peter T. Schoemann, Plumbers Union president, and Paul L. Phillips, Paper Workers president.

France Seen Raising Paris Parley Storm

Foreign Ministers Begin Assembling For Summit Talks

PARIS, Dec. 13 (AP) — Foreign Ministers began assembling today for the NATO summit conference amid predictions of a jarring diplomatic battle between France and its U.S. and British allies.

Among the optimistic was Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd of Britain. He said on his arrival next week's summit meeting will be "of historic importance" for the Western alliance.

The arrival of Secretary of State Dulles tomorrow, however, is expected to precipitate a diplomatic battle, over France's demands that Britain and the United Staes take a friendlier attitude toward French Norh African problems.

Officially the French have not formulated any demand. That will come up at a series of Cabinet sessions before the opening of the NATO summit session Monday with President Eisenhower as one of the first three speakers.

But it can be said on good authority that the French will demand assurance that no more arms will be delivered to Tunisia by Britain and the United States and that they support France's policy of staying in Algeria, despite the three-year rebellion.

These things will be demanded of Dulles, Eisenhower, and British Prime Minister Macmillan before the NATO sessions open. Until some such agreement is reached, French sources insist, France will take a very reserved position about permitting rocket bases to be built on French soil.

The United States will offer intermediate ballistic missiles to its European allies as one means of bolstering defenses.

French determination to take a tough line with its allies came after the British and Americans rushed small arms to Tunis last month over protests in Paris the guns would reach Algerian rebels fighting French rule.

The French feel that the Amercans are in the begging position at this conference—that for the protection of the United Shtates, bases for launching IRBM's must be established on European soil.

Eight Airmen Die In Bomber Crash

SPOKANE, Wash., Dec. 12 (AP) — A giant B2 jet bomber crashed shortly after takeoff from Fairchild Air Force Base about 15 miles west of Spokane today, sending up a mushroom-shaped cloud of smoke that was seen miles away.

Eight crewmen were reported killed. The tail gunner, Sgt. Jean I. Grey, 25, Augusta, Kan., miraculously survived a low-level ejection from the plane. He was not injured.

Sgt. Elmer E. Clark of Dallas, Tex., a member of the emergency crash crew, said that five crewmen apparently jumped from the plane, but only one survived. The other four died in the wreckage, he said.

Clark said the huge cloud was caused by exploding jet fuel.

The Air Force has said that some of its bombers carry nuclear weapons on training flights but that there is no chance they could accidently explode.

Refugee Relief Appeal

GENEVA, Dec. 12 (AP)—The International Red Cross launched a world appeal today for relief for 100,000 refugees who have fled from Algeria to Morocco and Tunisia.

Astronautics Directorate Puts USAF In Doghouse

WASHINGTON, Dec. 12 (AP)—The Air Force appeared to be in the doghouse tonight for proceeding to establish a special space weapons research office before the Defense Department could set up its own over-all agency.

On Tuesday, Lt. Gen. Donald L. Putt, chief of Air Force research and development, ordered establishment of a "Directorate of Astronautics" and named four men to put the office into operation.

The Air Force said the purpose is to "organize and manage" its own research into astronautics. It told newsmen this did not conflict in any way with the Defense Department's plan to set up an over-all "Advance Research Projects Agency" in the form of a single manager for coordination of such things as the future problems of space warfare and scientific study.

But today Dep. Secretary of Defense Donald Quarles was asked by newsmen about the establishment of the Air Force directorate.

Quarles replied: "We asked them to wait until we have the thing lined up."

Well, what was he going to do about the matter, in view of the fact the directorate now was an accomplished fact?

"I don't know that they have—established the directorate—so I have no comment," Quarles replied, then stepped into a plane and headed for the NATO conference in Paris.

This new evidence of friction in the Pentagon is expected to be one of the subjects of investigation by the Senate Preparedness subcommittee. This group, under the chairmanship of Sen. Lyndon Johnson (D-Tex), reopens tomorrow its hearing on U.S. progress in missiles and other fields.

Subway Strikers Shun Offer

Union Asks No-Reprisal Guarantees

NEW YORK, Dec. 12 (AP)—Striking subway motormen tonight demanded full amnesty as their price for ending a crippling four-day walkout. They also insisted on a voice in collective transit bargaining.

They asked Mayor Robert E. Wagner to meet with them as soon as possible to discuss their proposal, which they called "a fair basis for settling the strike."

Earlier in the day, the Transit Authority offered the motormen partial amnesty as the strike rapidly lost its impact. More lines were returning to service and strikers by the score joined a back to work movement.

The strikers turned down the partial amnesty plan, which would have enabled the TA to fire some of the motormen with the approval of an impartial referee.

"Justice" Demanded

"We shall not accept a take-it-or-leave-it proposal," said strike counsel Louis Waldman. "We shall only accept one which is just for all."

The strikers demanded a guarantee of no reprisals of any kind, representation on a contract negotiation committee and the right to administer any collective bargaining agreement for themselves.

They also asked that a bargaining election scheduled for the transportation system next Monday be postponed.

Service 61% Of Normal

Over-all, service on the subways already was back to 61½ per cent of normal, almost twice as good as it was Tuesday at the height of the strike. Above and below ground, the chaos that had gripped the crippled city was subsiding.

The evening rush hour went off without a hitch. The spectacular missing.

More than 1,000 motormen turned out for a Brooklyn membership meeting of the striking inde-Benevolent Assn. Others were unable to get into the meeting hall after police closed the doors on the capacity crowd.

Frank Zelano, acting head of the MBA, had said the meeting was called "to take a vote on whether to return to work."

Storm Damages U.S. Destroyer; One Man Killed

WASHINGTON, Dec. 12 (AP)—The Navy said today seven of its ships are "battling mountainous seas" in the eastern Atlantic, with one destroyer badly damaged, a man dead and three critically injured.

Some of the destroyers in the force are low on fuel. The Navy said they may have to be towed by larger ships until the seas subside enough to permit refueling.

The ships are the destroyers Gearing, Manley, Vogelgesang and McCard, the tanker Salamonie, the transport Gen. Hodges and the carrier Tripoli.

The Manley, badly damaged, is headed for Lisbon, where she is due tomorrow morning. U.S. naval headquarters at London received a message saying her superstructure was caved in.

Three other destroyers, low on fuel, are lying near the tanker. The Navy said it might be necessary for them to be taken in tow by the tanker, carrier and transport "if the high seas balk attempts to refuel them before they run dangerously low" in fuel.

The destroyers, comprising Destroyer Division 41, were en route to the Mediterranean to join the 6th Fleet under the ship rotation program. The tanker was bound home from the Mediterranean.

The Navy said that when the tanker met the destroyers to refuel them, high seas prevented the destroyers from coming alongside.

"In the ensuing hours, the storm intensively increased and the Manley suffered extensive damage to her superstructure," the Navy announced. "One crew member was killed and three critically injured."

Trend Reversed

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio, Dec. 12 (AP)—The price of a weekly bus pass here goes down from $2.75 to $2 Sunday in an effort to reverse a trend which in a decade has caused use of a mass transportation system to drop from 60 to 16 million riders a year.

"That's My Daddy!"

Renee Gallon, who will be four years of age next March, happily points to an Associated Press photo of her father, Harry Gallon, at the Gallon home in Burlingame, Calif., yesterday shortly after the picture was transmitted from New Orleans. That's Gallon's wife, Betty, looking on. Gallon, a 31-year-old former insurance executive, has been missing since last April 16. Later, Gallon talked by telephone to his wife. Still confused, he told a story of "waking up" to find himself a construction worker on an overpass job at New Orleans. (AP Photofax)

Flanders Wants Killian As Real Missiles Czar

WASHINGTON, Dec. 12 (AP)—Sen. Flanders (R-Vt) urged today that Dr. James R. Killian be put in full charge of the U.S. missile program, with nobody over him.

Killian, president of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, is on leave from his university post and serving as President Eisenhower's special assistant for science and technology.

Flanders contended Killian had been put in the wrong place. His argument, presented at a news conference, was that Killian could be boxed in by the secretary of defense, the Joint Chiefs of Staff and other Pentagon officials with defined authority.

Another question of authority arose at the Defense Department today when Deputy Secretary Donald Quarles disclosed that the Air Force has been asked to delay establishing its new "Directorate of Astronautics."

The directorate, charged with tackling the many problems of space warfare, was created in an Air Force directive issued yesterday. Quarles was asked by newsmen whether he objected to it.

"We asked them to wait until we have the thing lined up," he replied.

The Defense Department is planning to establish a single, over-all managerial system called the Advance Research Project Agency to handle such weapons of the future as antimissile missiles and space vehicles.

Competition among the armed services in the missile field has been blamed by members of Congress and some scientists for the fact that Russia has pulled ahead of the United States in the development of satellites and intercontinental missiles. The Defense Department is now trying to centralize the effort.

Flanders, a member of a Senate subcommittee now reviewing the whole missile picture, proposed that all U.S. satellite and missile testing be removed from the public winter resort area of Florida and shifted to some secret site like a Pacific island.

Unoccupied House Sets Itself Afire

ST. SIMONS ISLAND, Ga., Dec. 12 (AP)—It was so cold here today an unoccupied house set itself on fire trying to keep warm.

The ocean home of George T. Cornwell, Morganton, N. C., was damaged after a thermostat turned on an electric wall heater.

Fire Chief J. K. Harrison said a sofa had been pushed against the wall and the heater ignited it.

The chief said the thermostat was turned all the way down but with a 22-degree temperature the heater came on anyway.

U.S. Regains Speed Record With Voodoo

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 12 (AP) — A sleek Air Force Voodoo fighter-bomber today won back from Great Britain the official world speed record by averaging 1,207.6 m.p.h. in two flashing passes over a measured course. The old mark was 1,132 m.p.h.

Thus the record exceeds the British one by 75.5 m.p.h.

The announcement was made at a news conference at Los Angeles International Airport with Maj. Adrian E. Drew, the pilot. He stood beside the swept-wing McDonnell F101A Voodoo jet with which he earlier had made the runs over a 10.1-mile course at Edwards Air Force Base in the Mojave Desert.

He said upper air temperature conditions were good during the flight, made at an altitude of 39,000 feet.

"I am thrilled and honored in flying this mission," said Drew, 37, of Austin, Tex.

Drew flew here from Edwards AFB after his flight at 8:30 a.m. this morning.

Drew averaged an estimated 1,185 m.p.h. in two opposite passes over the 10.1-mile course last Tuesday. This improvement over the British mark did not qualify as a new record, however, because a photographic timer failed.

L. P. Twiss set the British record March 10, 1956, in a Fairey delta research plane.

The official speed record is considerably slower than the top speed of military research planes, which fly at extreme altitudes.

Drew, who comes from Carrellton, Ga., is commander of the 481st Fighter-Bomber Squadron, 27th Fighter-Bomber Wing, Bergstrom AFB, Tex. He took his first crack at the record last Tuesday and flew approximately 1,185 m.p.h.—but a defective camera robbed him of an official mark.

Girl Gives Life To Save Cousin

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 12 (AP)—A 17-year-old girl suffocated today after dropping her 5-year-old cousin to safety from a second-floor window when flames damaged a south Philadelphia house.

Firemen found the body of Olivia Collins across a bed.

Roslyn Payne, the victim's cousin, was burned seriously and was listed in critical condition at the Philadelphia General Hospital. Her mother, Mrs. Novella Payne, 52, suffered a leg fracture in a leap from a second-floor window.

The dead girl's brother, Barry Collins, 8, was treated for minor burns. Both Collins children lived with the Payne family.

After reaching safety when the fire broke out, Miss Collins reentered the burning house to rescue Roslyn, who was afraid to jump. She dropped the child into the outstretched arms of a waiting truck driver.

Then, while searching for her brother she thought was in a rear bedroom, Miss Collins was overcome by smoke.

Argonne Lab To Get Super Atom Smasher

CHICAGO, Dec. 12 (AP) — Argonne National Laboratory at Lemont announced today it has been authorized to build a 12½-billion-electron-volt accelerator at a cost of 27 million dollars.

Authorization came from the Atomic Energy Commission, the laboratory said.

"The new Argonne machine will produce greater numbers of accelerated particles than any other of the multibillion-electron-volt accelerators now in operation or under construction anywhere in the world," a statement from the laboratory said.

It described high energy particle accelerators as important tools for basic research that have greatly advanced knowledge of nuclear structure and reaction.

Cold Wave Engulfs East, South; Florida Crops Hit

By The Associated Press

Freezing weather ranged deep into the South Thursday. Vegetable crops and citrus were hard hit in Florida and the lower Rio Grande Valley.

A cold wave rolled through the Midwest across the eastern half of the nation before hitting the South. The cold and accompanying snow storms were blamed for at least 32 deaths.

The Florida freeze was one of the worst of the century. Damage was expected to soar into the millions. Early morning temperatures ranged down to 18 degrees at Crestview. Ice was a common sight in the central and northern sections of the citrus belt.

For most of Florida, the weather was the coldest for the date since 1934—and another night of freezing weather was in prospect. The 1934 freeze was one of the most injurious to citrus and other crops in the state's history.

Twenty-two of the weather deaths were caused by fires. The remainder resulted from traffic accidents in snow storms, freezing, falls on ice or overexertion from shoveling snow.

The state by state breakdown of deaths showed Georgia 8, Kentucky 8, Florida, 4, New York 4, Texas 2, Tennessee 2, and North Carolina, Pennsylvania, Illinois and Ohio, 1 each.

Baltimore, Md., had a record low reading for the date, 12 above, Washington, D.C., had a 13 reading, lowest for the date in 3 years. Shreveport, La., recorded a low of 19, lowest for the date in 86 years of Weather Bureau records.

Soviet Notes Handed To All U.N. Members

Kremlin Declares Action Imperative To Avert Disaster

LONDON, Dec. 12 (AP)—The Soviet Union—stepping up its letter-writing campaign—said tonight it is sending notes to all U.N. members warning that "the danger of nuclear war has greatly increased."

The announcement by Radio Moscow coincided with a U.N. debate in New York on a Soviet call for peaceful coexistence and came four days before a NATO summit meeting in Paris.

The broadcast was beamed to the West on Moscow's English-language service.

It said the new notes declared, "Action must be taken at once to prevent a war and improve relations between countries."

Follows Flurry Of Letters

Word of the mass distribution of new notes came hard on the heels of a flurry of letters from Soviet Premier Bulganin to Western government heads. Recipients of the letters included President Eisenhower, Prime Minister Macmillan, French Premier Felix Gaillard and West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer.

The messages generally have covered the same Soviet proposals for renouncing nuclear weapons and tests and other actions as steps toward peace.

The letters to Gaillard and Macmillan were made public tonight.

France Urged To Intercede

Bulganin told Gaillard the NATO meeting was called "to accelerate war preparations" of the Western Alliance and urged France to try to influence other NATO members to consider Soviet proposals.

The letter to Macmillan said it is "either irresponsible or downright provocative" for U.S. planes to carry hydrogen bombs on patrols from British bases. It declared that countries where American planes are based were put in a "very dangerous situation."

German A-Ban Asked

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y., Dec. 12 (AP)—The Soviet Union proposed tonight that the United States, Russia and Britain renounce the stationing of nuclear weapons in East and West Germany.

The proposal was made by Soviet Dep. Foreign Minister Vasily V. Kuznetsov before the 82-nation Political Committee of the U.N. General Assembly.

Launching the debate on the question of peaceful coexistence, Kuznetsov also urged the two German governments to ban the production and use of nuclear weapons on their territory.

If they would agree to such a ban, he said, Poland and Czechoslovakia would do likewise, creation of "a vast zone, populated by more than 100 million people, will emerge in Central Europe, excluded from the sphere of atomic armaments."

Dulles On His Way To Paris

WASHINGTON, Dec. 12 (AP) — Secretary of State Dulles took off today for the NATO meeting in Paris, and President Eisenhower prepared to do the same tomorrow.

Dulles declined to make a departing statement—he usually has one for reporters at the airport.

"I am just one of the President's assistants. I am going now just to do a little preparatory work before he gets there."

Eisenhower met this morning with the National Security Council, and the White House said it could be assumed that some of the topics taken up were among those to be considered at the summit meeting of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

It was only last Tuesday that Eisenhower's doctors settled the question of whether he would attend the Paris meeting. They said then that his progress from his mild stroke of Nov. 2 was such as to permit the trip.

They reported his speech impairment had cleared up to the point it was almost impossible to detect. The White House said he would make the opening speech on behalf of the American delegation on Monday.

Eisenhower is to take off tomorrow afternoon, take part in the NATO meetings Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, and fly back Thursday.

Memory Regained, Californian Heads For Family Reunion

NEW ORLEANS, Dec. 12 (AP) — Something plucked four months from the life of 31-year-old Harry Gallon of San Francisco and left him only with the memory of blackness.

On Aug. 16, Gallon, an insurance man, hurried to an appointment with a client. He had told his wife to meet him later at the station in San Mateo, the San Francisco suburb where they lived.

He never met his wife, Betty, that day. Police found a blood-stained jacket, a wallet and a briefcase. They feared robbery, kidnaping, perhaps murder.

But Gallon was not a victim of murder. Gallon today said he awoke in New Orleans, 2,300 miles away, on either Nov. 28 or Nov. 29, four months later.

"It was like a blinding flash, that day I came to," Gallon said. "I was sitting on this form, a form for cement, and it was like waking up with these lights—like watching a welder—in front of your eyes."

The last thing Gallon said he remembered when he awoke was blackness. He had been walking through an alley, probably near a San Francisco parking lot, to meet a client.

"That blackness is the last thing I remembered until I woke up here."

But Gallon did not try to contact his wife immediately. "I was trying to be logical," he said. "I was afraid if I started telling people I had lost my memory I would wind up in the psycho ward of a hospital. I really worried about people thinking I was off my rocker.

"So I didn't say anything, even later on, when things began to get a little straighter in my mind."

Gallon contacted the New Orleans police yesterday and asked them to help contact his wife.

His wife and daughter had moved to Burlingame, Calif., because they could not keep up with a $120-a-month suburban home without Gallon's salary.

He called and told her he would take a plane for home today—in time for their ninth wedding anniversary, Dec. 20, and for Christmas.

Plane Crashes On Parsonage

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Dec. 12 (AP) —A small borrowed plane carrying two steel company executives fell ghostlike in a snow squall today onto the roof of a Methodist parsonage.

Miraculously the two executives, en route from Massachusetts to North Carolina on business, escaped critical injury. The pastor of the Westville Methodist church, ill in bed with a cold, his wife and a small daughter were unharmed.

Paul Sriberg, 33, of Needham, Mass., general manager of the Northeastern Steel Products Co. of Boston, piloted the plane, borrowed from George A. Schroeder, president of Schroeder Products Co. of Woburn, Mass.

Ken Robbins, 33, of Framingham, Mass., an estimator-draftsman for Northeastern, was Sriberg's passenger.

Both were cut about the head. Sriberg also suffered leg injuries.

Authorities said Sriberg apparently cut the ignition before the impact, thus preventing a probable fire and perhaps saving the lives of the two men.

Rescue workers reaching the men found one conscious. His first concern was the occupants of the house.

U. N. Unit Backs Controversial Cyprus Proposal

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y., Dec. 12 (AP)—The U.N. Political Committee approved today a controversial resolution affirming the right of the people of Cyprus to chart their own political future.

The 33-20 vote was a victory for Greece, but was not enough to assure a two-thirds majority when the issue comes before the General Assembly. Twenty-five nations, including the United States, abstained. Four were absent.

Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge explained that in the U.S. view Cyprus "is not the kind of problem that can be solved by U.N. deliberations in the absence of the agreement of the parties involved."

The action here may have reverberations at the coming sessions of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization in Paris.

Brando's Bride Denies Any Rift

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 12 (AP) — Reports circulated in the movie colony today that Marlon Brando and his bride have parted. He couldn't be reached.

The former Anna Kashfi denied the rumors, saying: "I'm just sitting home waiting to have my baby next July. When Marlon heard of it — the reports — he shrugged his shoulders."

When Brando was asked about the reports last week he gave his usual answer to such questions: "I won't say they're true and I won't say they're untrue. My private life is my own business and nobody else's."

Army Archerd, Daily Variety columnist, said Brando had moved out of his Laurel Canyon house but that "pals don't expect a divorce until after the baby is born."

Actor Sam Gilman, regarded as Brando's closest friend, said Marlon had not moved in with him.

"And it's quite possible I'm the guy he would move in with," said Gilman.

Grocer Team Jailed For Sunday Sales

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Dec. 12 (AP) —A father and son grocer team today started serving 60-day jail sentences for keeping their store open on Sundays in violation of city ordinance and a judge's order.

J. H. Hickinbotham and his son, H. V. Hickinbotham, also face fines and court costs.

On petition of a group of their competitors, Judge Guy E. Williams forbade the Hickinbothams from Sunday operation as a violation of state and city closing laws.

The order was disregarded and Williams cited the Hickinbothams for contempt. He fined each of them $1,900 and sentenced each to 190 days in jail.

Maryland Atom Law Proposed

BALTIMORE, Dec. 12 (AP) — A special Legislative Council committee has advised Maryland against passing a 1958 general law to govern the peaceful uses of atomic energy.

The committee, headed by Del. Warren Browning (D-Montgomery), said in a report released today that recent studies indicate existing health laws are "sufficient to afford the necessary protection to public health from the hazards of the atomic energy industry in Maryland as that industry presently exists."

The studies were made by a special committee set up by the Maryland State Board of Health, said the report.

"It is obvious, however," the report added, "that problems will arise in this regard from any appreciable expansion of activities in this industry which will require State legislation for the protection of the public health and safety from the hazards unique to this industry."

The Browning group said it had considered two possible revisions in State laws as they might be applied to the atomic energy industry, but "time has not permitted the conclusion" of this consideration.

One possible revision would be the amendment of tax laws to allow cities and counties to grant atomic energy facilities exemptions as an inducement to settle within their jurisdictions.

Another would be an extension of the time allowed for applying for workmen's disability compensation. The committee noted reports that injuries from exposure to radiological materials may not become apparent within the limited periods set up by present law.

Epidemic Of Flu Appears Waning

WASHINGTON, Dec. 12 (AP) — Surgeon Gen. Leroy E. Burney said today the Asian flu epidemic, which he described as the most widespread in 40 years, appears to be on the wane.

He added, however, that the disease can be expected to occur through March and urged continued use of Asian flu vaccine.

The Public Health Service chief said it is impossible to say whether the disease will again reach epidemic proportions.

"We do know, however, that Japan appears to be experiencing a second wave, an institution in California which had an epidemic in August had a small second outbreak this month, three counties in Arizona have recently had a second increase in influenza-like cases, and Louisiana reported a number of new school outbreaks in late October," Burney went on.

Franciosa Sent To Jail For Kicking Newsman

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 12 (AP) — Actor Anthony Franciosa started serving a 10-day jail sentence today for kicking a news photographer.

Franciosa was convicted of assaulting a photographer who took his picture outside a court where Franciosa and Miss Winters had gone to bid on a home. The couple at the time were not married and Franciosa objected to their being photographed together.

4,000 Flee Eruption

PORT MORESBY, New Guinea, Dec. 12 (AP)—Some Europeans and nearly 4,000 natives are being evacuated from Manam Island because of a volcano eruption. Manam is 10 miles off the New Guinea coast.

Fires Across Nation Kill At Least 31

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

An outbreak of house fires took a grim toll of children's and adults' lives across the United States in the past 24 hours. The fires particularly hit the Southland, in the midst of a cold wave.

The fires, Wednesday night and Thursday, caused at least 31 deaths.

A girl died a heroine in a flaming Philadelphia dwelling. Olivia Collins, 17, had reached safety, but then saw a 2-year-old cousin standing at a second-floor window, afraid to jump. Miss Collins ran back into the house, dropped the child to a bystander, but then could not save herself.

A family of eight, including six children, perished as a fire leveled a rural tenant house at Ellabell, Ga.

Three children burned to death in a fire that swept through their home in a remote area near South Shore, Ky. Five adults died in a fire in the Nelson County Infirmary near Bardstown, Ky.

Flames raging through a dwelling at Ononcock, Va., killed a mother and her three children. A similar fire at Dante, Va., caused the deaths of a coal miner and his two children.

Two persons died in other Virginia fires.

At Fort Pierce, Fla., two of a couple's four children perished in a house fire while the mother was driving the father to work.

One of 32 guests was killed in an explosion and fire in the three-story Beckham Hotel in Greenville, Tex.

Nine students leaped from second-story windows to escape a fire that destroyed a fraternity house on the University of Mississippi campus.

A fire starting from an exploding oil stove destroyed a house at Bemus Point, in Upper New York State. The owner's wife complained afterward that two women talking on her party telephone refused to give up the line so she could call firemen.

Indonesia Red Drive Threatens Resources Important To West's Security

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Foreign News Analyst

A struggle for control over 82 million Indonesians threatens to generate another crisis.

The rulers of the republic of Indonesia, chronically gripped by a national nervous breakdown, have turned their backs on Western-style Democracy. Communists have moved into a position of enormous influence. As a result, Indonesia is in danger of being ripped apart in a political explosion.

The Communists may not yet be ready to strike for power. But in some respects, Indonesia is to Southeast Asia what Syria is to the Middle East. Communism leaped over the West's northern defense tier in the Middle East and exerted strong influence in Syria. In Indonesia, communism vaulted over another military line, the Southeast Asia Treaty Organization.

In both cases the Red drive threatens resources and sea lanes important to the security and economies of the West. Indonesia is a complex of islands stretching across 3,000 miles.

With their control of such mass organizations as the trade union federation and the peasants' union, and with an armed wing of veterans of the 1945-49 fighting at their disposal, the Communists of Indonesia are in a position to strike.

If they do, the islands probably will be plunged into civil war, sparked by the many dissidents in the army and the likely secession of islands outside central and densely populated Java.

Java, with three-quarters of all Indonesia's population, had a taste of things to come last spring, when Communist bullies were sent into the streets to beat down vocal opposition to what President Sukarno called his "new concept." And the Reds marshaled mobs of students and workers to chant support for Sukarno.

How did Indonesia, breaking away from 300 years of Dutch rule only seven years ago, get itself into such a fantastically complicated state of political chaos and economic disaster?

One reason is that when the Dutch administrators departed, few Indonesians were ready to take over. There was only an extremely thin veneer of Western-ized education in the country. In 1954 in Jakarta an intelligent, Western-educated Indonesian political leader broke down in a hysterical mixture of laughter and tears as he explained to me with an air of utter hopelessness that his country had turned into an army without sergeants. A few were in control at the top. The great masses were just below. There was nobody in between to carry out the innumerable administrative tasks of government.

The Indonesian economy, in a land of fabulous natural riches, began going downhill immediately after independence, and never has stopped. One crisis followed another in quick succession, until crisis became the accustomed state of affairs.

Only the Communists had a really disciplined, tight-knit organization, lavishly supported with money and other assistance by a huge Chinese Communist Embassy and by Soviet agents. By early 1954, the life or death of the prevailing Nationalist party government depended upon the whim of the Communists. And the Nationalists were overstocked with anxious opportunists, willing to seek power for themselves at any costs. They turned aside from the moderate parties and accepted the eager offers of assistance from the well-organized Communists.

Parliamentary elections finally were held in 1955 and dragged on five months into 1956. The Communists drew more than six million votes—eormous for a largely illiterate country such as Indonesia. They took 39 of the 257 seats in Parliament. A frightened coalition thereafter kept them out of the government. But President Sukarno—he habitually referred to himself as bapak (father) and was referred to as "bung Karno" or brother Karno, by his followers—had been to Moscow and Peiping for red carpet visits and he was impressed.

Sukarno saw no way out of Indonesia's frightful political-economic mess except by some sort of dictatorship. He came up with what he called a "new concept"—a government without opposition which would be based upon "gotong-rojong" — a foggy phrase meaning something like unselfish cooperation. Because the Communists attracted so many votes, he insisted they be represented in such an arrangement.

Sukarno set up an advisory council of 4 members, to whom both Parliament and the do-nothing Cabinet of Prime Minister Djuanda surrendered the powers. Sukarno ruled as a presidential dictator with the support and consent of an army faction headed by the anti-Communist chief of staff, Gen. Abdul Harris Nasution; the Communists, and the Nationalist party.

To this crazy-quilt government Sukarno gave the name "guided democracy." It was supposed to aim at unity above all, to counter Indonesia's crushing political and economic problems. But many respects it resembled the governmental setup of Communist China.

D. N. Aidit, 34-year-old Moscow-trained leader of the Communist party, has been riding high. But it seems likely he and his lieutenants will await the signal from Moscow before they strike for domination. And Moscow, for reasons of its own, may delay that signal for a safe and suitable moment.

In view of all this, Indonesia's insistent claims to Western New Guinea appear to be a matter of simply asking for more trouble.

Blissful Ignorance

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP)—Gilbert Robinson, director of personnel for Oklahoma City schools, struck up a conversation with a first grader.

"And where do you go to school, son?" Robinson asked.

"Marilyn Monroe school," the lad replied.

Robinson didn't have the heart to tell him the school was named after the fifth president of the United States.

Only six of every 10 of the top five per cent of U. S. high school graduates go to college.

SRC Approves Allocation Of $3,715,608 In Federal Aid To State Urban Areas

BALTIMORE, Dec. 12 (AP)—Urban areas of Prince Georges, Montgomery and Anne Arundel counties will get their first bites of federal money to aid urban road building in fiscal 1959, and it means less for other Maryland urban areas.

The State Roads Commission today approved allocation of $3,715,608 in urban federal aid to 15 Maryland cities and 9 unincorporated urban areas, each having 5,000 or more population.

The total is only $88,022 more than was allocated for the current fiscal year. Yet the additional areas eligible to share for the first time will receive $501,959, or about one seventh of the total. This means the other cities and areas will get less.

The SRC also approved today fiscal 1959 allocations of secondary road federal aid totaling $2,222,223 which will be distributed to Maryland's 23 counties on the basis of their secondary road mileage. The counties received $2,137,600 this year.

The urban money is distributed strictly on the basis of population and reflects the changing population trend, from the cities to the suburbs.

Baltimore County will receive $436,623, an increase of 7.1 per cent while Baltimore City will drop from $2,758,846 for the current fiscal year to $2,205,440 next year.

Added to the list of urban federal aid recipients are 2 Anne Arundel County districts, 4 in Montgomery County and 11 districts in Prince Georges. Changing federal requirements which recognize a suburban area as urban regardless of whether it has an incorporated urban center, brought about their inclusion.

The urban aid breakdown (including fiscal 1958 in parenthesis):

Cumberland $87,471 ($109,339); Frederick $42,088 ($52,526); Frostburg $16,103 ($20,010); Hagerstown $84,177 ($105,408).

Va. State Employes To Get Long Holiday

RICHMOND, Va., Dec. 12 (AP)—State employes will have all day off from work Dec. 24, Gov. Stanley announced today.

They will have a two-day holiday extending from closing time Monday, Dec. 23, until Thursday morning. Stanley said it is customary to give half a day Christmas Eve. But because Christmas comes this year in the middle of the week, Stanley added he felt it would be a good thing to give employes the whole day.

State employes will work a full day Dec. 31, although New Year's Day is a state holiday.

Virginia Will Double Unmarked Police Cars

RICHMOND, Va., Dec. 12 (AP)—The number of unmarked cars being used by State Police to nab speeders and reckless drivers has been ordered doubled, Gov. Stanley told his press conference today.

He said he had been "very pleased with the results" of the unmarked car plan as reported to him by State Police Supt. C. W. Woodson Jr. Stanley declined to give any figures on the number of cars in use or the number of arrests being made by them.

"We still will not have very many in operation," he said.

Asked if the cars were doubling the arrests made per car, he said they were not, but that they were picking up more speeders and reckless drivers than were the marked cars.

New Radio Station

WASHINGTON, Dec. 12 (AP)—TCA Broadcasting Corp., 3600 M. St., N. W., Washington, today applied to the Communications Commission for a new radio station at College Park, Md. to operate on 1150 kilocycles, kilowatts, daytime, 500 watts at night.

Md. Officials Accused Of Hunting Violations

BALTIMORE, Dec. 12 (AP)—Maryland's State medical examiner, a deputy examiner and two other men were charged today with hunting over an area where live geese were used as decoys.

Federal law prohibits use of live decoys or bait where geese or ducks are hupted.

The federal charges named Dr. Russell S. Fisher, state medical Examiner, and Dr. Gerald Palmer of Bel Air, deputy state medical examiner, and two men from Glenarm and Abingdon.

The other two named are Clarence O. Carter, 37, of Glenarm, plastering contractor, and Howard K. McComas Jr., 53, of Abingdon, a funeral director.

Asst. U.S. Atty. John G. Underwood filed criminal information charging they hunted wild geese Nov. 19 in Kent County in an area where live geese had been posted as decoys.

Both Sides Lose Poker Argument

BALTIMORE, Dec. 12 (AP)—Both players lost an argument today over whether four kings beats a club flush in poker.

Robert Faukner and Wannish Frank held the hands and got into a fight over which won the pot. They wound up before Magistrate Howard Aaron on charges of disorderly conduct.

Aaron ruled that the four kings were better. But he ordered the $6 pot confiscated to buy Christmas baskets for the poor.

Motorist Fined $250

BALTIMORE, Dec. 12 (AP)—George L. Curry, 32, of Beltsville was the first automobile driver convicted today of being intoxicated going through the Baltimore Harbor Tunnel opened on Dec. 1.

Curry was fined $200.75 for being under the influence. He paid $50.75 also for having no driving license.

Two More Firms To Leave Baltimore

BALTIMORE, Dec. 12 (AP)—The number of manufacturers leaving Baltimore to escape the new city tax on inventory and equipment reached 11 today.

The A. K. Robins Co., maker of food processing machinery, said it is moving to Cardiff in Harford County. The Maryland Beverage Co. is going to Smithsburg in Washington County.

Baltimore imposed a tax this year for the first time on stocks and machinery of industries. It is at full estimated value. The counties of Maryland assess at only a percentage of the value.

The Robins company has been in Baltimore for 102 years and employs 75.

The women of China and other eastern countries dye their hair, the juice of the petals of the hibiscus being in general use for that purpose.

Youth, 17, Formally Accused Of Murder

SALISBURY, Dec. 12 (AP)—One 17-year-old boy was charged by the Wicomico County grand jury today with murdering another in a shooting over a girl.

The jury, winding up two days of a special session after being recalled by Judge Rex A. Taylor, accused Robert Douglas Bruce of Fruitland, Md., in the death of Nolan Willey of Bethel, Del.

Willey was shot to death Dec. 1 in front of the girl's home in Salisbury.

Among five others charged by the jury was Hollis Luffman, 30-year-old plumber accused of the statutory rape of a 13-year-old Salisbury girl last Oct. 29.

Taylor said those named in today's indictments would not be tried before late January.

Second D.C. Heliport

WASHINGTON, Dec. 12 (AP)—Washington's second heliport will be opened Saturday.

The landing area, 65 by 320 feet, has been leased from the Washington Gas Light Co. The land is on the southwest corner of Virginia Avenue and 26th Street, NW, the site of an old gas plant that was razed several years ago.

ROBES — SECOND FLOOR

ARE INSTALLED—Pride of 628, Lodge 47, Ladies Auxiliary to the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen had installation of officers at the annual Christmas party held at Ridgeley fire hall. Because of New Year's day, the next meeting has been postponed until January 8, at which time committees will be appointed. Plastic foam chimneys and Santas, red candles and bouquets of poinsettias decorated the buffet dinner table. The holiday motif was repeated in the green and red decorations of the cake, which was inscribed with "Merry Christmas." Left to right are Mrs. Ruth Fornwalt, secretary-treasurer; Mrs. Edith Currence, past president; Mrs. Ann Currence, vice president; Mrs. Ann Montgomery, president; and Mrs. Margaret Powers, chaplain.

A letter of thanks was received from Mrs. J. J. Lydinger for the birthday gift and party given her last month. Each member signed a Christmas card to be sent to Miss Maude A. Bean, former home demonstration agent; and Mrs. Helen Vandegrift, former member.

Four ceramic angels, encircled with colored balls and angel hair, centered the table. Other decoratoins were vases and hurricane lamps of Christmas balls and angel hair, red candles in crystal holders and sprays of pine. White and green trees and red and white candy were the favors.

Concluding the meeting a program was presented. The group sang "Silent Night," "God Rest Ye Merry, Gentlemen." "Hark the Herald Angels Sing." "It Came Upon the Midnight Clear," "O Little Town of Bethlehem," and "Away in A Manger." A reading, "A Christmas Legend," was given by Mrs. Rose Yeargan; and one, "Legend Befana," by Mrs. Wentling. New Trial In Suit Against Doctor, Hospital Sought

ANNAPOLIS, Dec. 12 (AP) — A North Arlington, Va., man has asked the Maryland Court of Appeals to order a new trial in his $50,000 damage suit against a Maryland doctor and hospital.

Henry F. Lane sought reversal of a Montgomery County Circuit Court ruling dismissing his suit against Dr. Reed N. Calvert, a Silver Spring surgeon, and the Washington Sanitarium & Hospital Inc. of Takoma Park.

Circuit Judge Thomas M. Anderson directed a verdict in favor of the doctor and the hospital at the conclusion of Lane's case on grounds there was no evidence legally sufficient to entitle Lane to recover damages.

Lane had charged "malpractice in the careless and negligent performance" of an operation and the post-operative care of his wife, Ella Pearl Lane.

Dr. Calvert, a surgeon for 33 years, operated on Mrs. Lane for cancer at the Washington Sanitarium & Hospital in May 1953.

Dr. Calvert testified that Mrs. Lane left the hospital in July although he advised her to remain and undergo another operation. She entered another hospital in December and was operated on by another surgeon. She died of cancer the following March.

Attorneys for Lane argued before the appellate court that the only weaknesses in Lane's case were caused by Judge Anderson's error in refusing to allow them to ask questions "eliciting proof as to proper practice by physicians exercising ordinary care and skill."

Marines Freed In Slaying Case

WILMINGTON, N. C., Dec. 12 (AP)—A jury this week acquitted three Marines charged with murder in the roadhouse slaying here last September of Charles E. Sullivan, 23.

Solicitor (Prosecutor) John J. Burney immediately took a nol pros (not to prosecute) in the case of seven other Marines charged in the same case.

The jury was out about 3½ hours before delivering its verdict to Judge Henry L. Stevens.

On trial were Paul H. Faust, 18, of Baltimore; William T. Powell, 19, of Cincinnati; and Wilbur Carter, 20, of Annapolis, Md.

The three had been on trial for more than a week in the rifle slaying of Sullivan during a brawl at a roadhouse parking lot. The victim's 21-year-old widow testified that her husband spoke to and punched Faust in the face after the Marine grabbed her by the arm as her husband escorted her to a restroom.

However, a defense witness testified he overhead a police officer ask Mrs. Sullivan shortly after the slaying if Faust was involved in the slaying and that she replied no.

Sen. Kefauver 'Wary' Of Ike's Trade Proposal

WASHINGTON, Dec. 12 (AP) — President Eisenhower's proposal for a five-year extension of the reciprocal trade agreement program drew fire recently from an unexpected quarter.

Sen. Kefauver (D-Tenn), a strong supporter of the program, said he was "wary" of new language in the administration draft which could serve to raise, rather than lower, tariffs on certain imports.

Most critics have opposed extending the program at all, arguing that lower tariffs and the resultant competition from foreign imports have hurt American business.

Kefauver made clear he favors extending the program for the five years sought by the administration, but along the lines of the existing authority, which expires next June 30.

The act gives the President authority to lower tariffs on foreign imports in exchange for tariff concessions on the part of other countries for American exports.

Kefauver said the newly drafted legislation would authorize the President to increase tariffs on some items to a level of 50 per cent above that of Jan. 1, 1934, under the so-called "escape clause" procedure.

This is a mechanism under which an industry can seek increases in import duties where it can prove specific losses attributably to imports of foreign competitive articles.

"This would be a change in the present law in that the applicable date under existing law is Jan. 1, 1945," Kefauver's statement said.

"Between the dates of 1934 and 1945 tariffs were lowered considerably on most items. Therefore, this gives the President considerable authority to increase tariffs."

Kefauver said he had never been able to reconcile the administration's "tariff actions with its tariff words, and, therefore, I am wary of this provision."

Economists Call On Britain To Join Europe Trade Plan

By WATSON SIMS

LONDON, Dec. 12 (AP)—An independent study group of economists recommended strongly today that Britain take all possible steps to join in the European free trade area plan.

It said the choice may determine whether the nation is to share with the continent in a growing prosperity or face alone the prospects of economic and political decline.

This was the finding of the Economist Intelligence Unit Ltd., which was commissioned by the British and Europe Fund to study the significance for Britain of the growing trend toward economic consolidation in Europe.

The results of the 10-month study, which was backed by leading British bankers, industrialists and economists, was published in a 299-page book entitled "Britain and Europe."

Conclusions were that British industry would gain appreciably in the plan while British agriculture would have nothing to lose.

The researchers noted that six nations — West Germany, France, Italy, the Netherlands, Belgium and Luxembourg — already have moved to bring the European common market into being by about 1970. The European free trade area, which would bring these and approximately a dozen other nations into a unified trade community, is still in the planning and negotiating stages.

"Of the industries studied, covering some 85 per cent of the total manufacturing industry, those likely to be adversely affected by 1970 within a free trade area account for less than 15 per cent of the output," said the British economists.

The study showed that within a free trade area the output of Britain's chemical industry would be 10 to 20 per cent higher than if the common market alone develops.

The output of rubber manufacturers would be 5 to 10 per cent higher, while the differential for the clothing industry would be 5 per cent.

Seen as likely losers to continental competition if tariff walls are lowered by the free trade plan were British producers of cotton, rayon, paper, leather, watches and clocks.

"The prospects for china, footwear and toys are also somewhat doubtful," the study added.

The report said that entirely apart from the greater intraEuropean trade which would follow the abolition of tariffs and quotas, the free trade area should speed up the growth of national incomes and production.

The report declared that the growth of the common market alone would have tremendous consequences for Britain both at the economic and political levels.

"British competitive power would be blunted not only in Europe but also in overseas markets where the continentals, particularly the Germans, would become increasingly strong," the economists said.

The common market nations would in effect become a third great power alongside the United States and Russia, "less formidable than either but with a much greater claim to consideration than the United Kingdom."

The government of Prime Minister Harold Macmillan has strongly favored the free trade area plan but has sought to exclude agriculture because of its commitments to commonwealth nations.

European nations generally want agricultural products included. Negotiations now under way are believed to center mainly on resolving this difference.

Record Mexico Budget

MEXICO CITY, Dec. 12 (AP) — Treasury Minister Antonio Carrillo Flores says next year's federal budget has been set at 8,402,000,000 pesos, slightly over 672 million dollars. That is the largest in Mexico's history, up 824 million pesos (65 million dollars) from this year.

Special Envoy Pleads Donegal's Case

By ARTHUR EDSON

WASHINGTON, Dec. 12 (AP) — It was just a methodical, routine move by the U.S. government, but it has caused consternation to the poor people of Donegal.

A special missionary, Robert Harris, has been dispatched to these shores to plead Ireland's cause. And so great is the crisis that before he left home not only the priest, but also the Presbyterian minister, called to pray for the success of his mission.

What, then, is the cause of the troubles?

Why, 'tis simple. This government wanted to protect its woolen cloth industry, so it decided to set up a quota system. This has the effect of increasing the tariff from 25 to 45 per cent after 14 million pounds has been imported from all countries.

Apparently there was a grand rush to get in on the cheaper tariff, for by July 24 the quota was filled. This may have been all right for machine-woven goods, but the people of Donegal weave by hand and so had no way to step up the pace. By midsummer they were left with goods that, with the extra duty, would be too high priced to compete in the American market.

"It's a horse race," Harris said, "in which we're the donkey. In our own firm we had to lay off 38 weavers, a thing we hadn't done since — I can't remember when we laid off a weaver. July 24th is a very black day for the Irish textile industry."

Well, the Tariff Commission is holding a hearing to see what, if anything, should be done. And Harris is here to speak up for Donegal.

He's a neat little man, in a neat suit (hand-woven, of course), with a neat mustache and hair, what there is left of it, neatly slicked over his head. Except for his accent, and his Irish sentimentality, he might be a business man from almost anywhere.

But his business has a strange look in this mechanized country.

In Ireland, 99 per cent of the hand weaving is done in the weaver's own cottage. Each day a truck goes out with the yarn and brings back the woven webs. Until this year, business has been good, thanks to a steadily expanding U.S. market.

"In American terms," Harris said, "all this is microscopic. Last year we sent you only $8,800,000 in goods altogether, and that includes rope, tweed and whisky.

"And our poor, miserable country, with a population of less than three million, bought $38,154,000 from you. That's $10 a person. In relation to you, it means nothing statistically, but in relation to the economy of Donegal, it's frightfully important."

And he turned again to talk of the people of Donegal, where every family has a connection in America.

"In my business," he said, "you know each man and you know the names of his children. I may be crazy, but before I left I gave an order for 400 pieces. God knows what I'm going to do with them. I'll probably chuck them in the sea.

"But it will give the chaps some pay for Christmas."

Budapest Has Water Shortage

BUDAPEST, Hungary, Dec. 12 (AP)—There is a plaintive new chant circulating in this Hungarian capital of nearly two million population:

"All I want for Christmas is one hot bath—or even a cold one."

Due to a persistent water shortage, all bathing—tub or shower, at home or in factories—has been forbidden here for nearly two weeks by the City Council.

Now the council has issued a further decree: "Residents who continue to violate conservation orders by bathing will have severe fines imposed on them on the spot by control officers."

Some Budapesters asked: "What about the lady caught in her tub by a control officer? She doesn't usually carry money there to pay an on-the-spot fine, so how will she satisfy the commission?"

The Communists have sought to blame "wastefulness" for the water shortage. They have forbidden the use of basins to store water and it's getting difficult even to wash one's face and hands. People living in upper floors of apartment houses get practically no pressure during the day and at night the control taps are turned off by the janitors.

Many Budapesters blame the Communist administration for not modernizing the city's water facilities. Some of the works were built in 1905 and have not been expanded or modernized since, despite a big population increase.

Cat And Dog Meat

HONG KONG, Dec. 12 (AP) — A Chinese magazine writer is urging the British Hong Kong government to allow legal sale of cat and dog meat for human consumption. La Ka-cheung wrote in the Far Eastern Economic Review that Chinese like that kind of meat and, since most Hong Kong residents are Chinese, they should be given preference.

Hot Seat Doesn't Bother Vanguard Boss

WASHINGTON, Dec. 12 (AP)—Dr. John P. Hagen is sitting on one of the world's hottest seats, but he seems no more fidgety about it than a quiet mother hen.

Hagen's job as director of Project Vanguard is to hatch baby moons and shoot them on data-gathering orbits around the earth.

Vanguard is part of America's contribution to the 60-nation International Geophysical Year, a scientific effort to learn more about the earth and the space around it. The venture is exciting enough from a purely scientific standpoint.

But the 49-year-old Hagen—his regular job is heading a division at the Naval Research Laboratory—has been swept into the international political arena in a cold war storm, the outcome of which is as yet unknown.

Nonscientific pressure on the Vanguard project took a big upswing when Russia shot Sputnik I into orbit Oct. 4. Then the Soviets followed with an even bigger, dog-carrying Sputnik on Nov. 3. The Red propaganda guns boomed.

Americans took hopeful notice of Vanguard, launched as a scientific undertaking in mid-1955 with the aim of circling half a dozen satellites in 1958. A few small test satellites were planned before the bigger ones were tried out. Last Friday, with all the world watching, Vanguard's first satellite-bearing test rocket blew up on its launching pad.

Hagen took this U.S. propaganda disaster in scientific stride. Of course everyone is disappointed, he calmly told a roomful of newsmen. But a test is a test and failure is one thing that must be anticipated, he said, puffing on his pipe.

The Vanguard leader sounded a bit emotional only when talking about the wide publicity that attended each step of the launching attempt. He expressed concern that over-enthusiasm had led millions of people to overlook the point that the main aim of last week's test was to check the rocket.

Then Hagen went about studying the failure to see how it could be avoided on the next test. He said he was confident the next one would pan out.

Several associates said Hagen was always this deliberate, crisis or not.

Co-workers swear by the Nova Scotia-born Hagen, perhaps partly because he doesn't carry around self-assumed grandeur on the job. A family man, he carries his own lunch box to work.

Hagen started out to be a lawyer and Capt. Peter Horn, head of the naval laboratory, says Hagen still is "a master of the spoken and the unspoken word."

At Boston University Hagen discovered that he liked science courses. He went on to teach physics at Wesleyan University, Middleton, Conn. He got an M.A. there, did graduate work at Yale, and earned a Ph.D. degree from Georgetown University in 1949.

50 Per Cent Of Once Foreign-Controlled Overseas Churches Transferred To Local Administration

By GEORGE CORNELL
AP Religion Writer

In a far-off land, a white-skinned clergyman this week handed over a century-old charter to a dark-skinned clergyman. They shook hands and bowed their heads in thanks.

The job was done. An American-run church had become an African-run church.

"This is the realization of dreams. . . ." So spoke the participants.

Transactions of this kind have become a familiar feature of the worldwide Christian enterprise today, with the control of churches started years ago by foreign missionaries being turned over to new, native leaders.

"The process is going on with increasing and rather remarkable momentum," said the Rev. Dr. Luther A. Gotwald, executive secretary of the foreign missions division of the National Council of Churches.

To an extent that might surprise many a U. S. church-goer, the global missionary network formerly dominated by Westerners, mostly Americans, now is run by native-born Christians.

Officials estimate that approximately 50 per cent of the once foreign-controlled overseas church operations have been transferred to local administration. This has happened, in large part, since World War II, and it's still going on.

The ceremonies this week in Elat, Cameroon, on the west coast of central Africa, was a dramatic example.

At a bustling, enthusiastic assembly of African pastors, elders and others, the new, independent institution struck out on its own—"the Presbyterian Church of the Cameroon."

In turning over the reins of church government, and full ownership of all property, the Rev. Dr. Eugene Carson Blake, administrative head of the Presbyterian Church in the U.S.A., said it was a long hope fulfilled.

Dr. Blake, of Philadelphia, also noted another factor, which recently has reverberated strongly through the missionary branches of many denominations.

"The rise of nationalism and the liquidation of imperialism is just as important in the church context as it is in the political context," he said.

In the Cameroon, as has been true elsewhere, it was quite an organizational handful that was given over to home rule and ownership—a total of 193 congregations with 83,000 members stretching from the hot, equatorial coasts into the high, mountainous interior.

There are eight hospitals, the largest with 250 beds, a college, schools serving 25,000 children, clinics, leper centers, special shops—altogether 590 permanent buildings and 315 temporary-type structures such as kitchen sheds and shelters.

However, in turning over to the Cameroon churchmen this array of facilities and responsibilities, the U.S.A. Presbyterians still offer help—money and personnel—if the new-born church wants it.

"That's up to them. They have the say-so.

The U. S. church has spent $300,000 on new buildings there in the last two years, and its annual budget for missionary work there has been over $500,000 a year for operations and a staff of 125 evangelists, teachers, doctors, nurses and others.

But they'll be called "fraternal workers"—not missionaries— and they'll be under administration of the African church.

Such policies point up the strong movement among American churches to shake off any semblance of colonial-type, Western-supremacy connotations in their missionary programs, and to let the young churches, as soon as they grow up, handle their own affairs.

"Actually," said Dr. Gotwald, "the original goal of missionaries was to work themselves out of a job, and establish a church that could carry on by itself. That is the right and healthy way it should go."

However, he added, denominational mission boards sometimes have been reluctant to relinquish control, feeling that if they still furnish money they should direct its use. But the intensified nationalism in many areas has spurred the change along.

At work abroad today are about 23,000 American missionaries—preachers, teachers, medics and others.

While nearly all of them used to work under supervision of their U. S. headquarters, about half now take orders from native church officials. And they're sent there by local request.

In Asia and the Far East—India, Japan, Burma, the Philippines—almost the entire onetime missionary operation now is in the hands of strapping national churches. The process is well along in Indonesia, the East Indies, Korea, and also in South America.

In Africa, where church work and training of native Christian leaders is not so far advanced, the process of establishing national churches is just getting started, with Presbyterians among those in the forefront, both there and in other regions.

A snowshoe is a large rabbit.

Along The Potomac

by Rep. DeWitt S. Hyde

WASHINGTON—The announcement that the Eisenhower Administration will press for Congressional action on the problem of what is to be done when a President is unable to perform his duties makes certain that the question will be before the House Judiciary Committee early next year. You will recall that the Committee held hearings on "Presidential Inability" last Spring. As a member of the committee I have devoted considerable study to the question.

It seems to me that the authors of the Constitution felt that the intent and the language of the section providing for the assumption of the powers and duties of the office of President needed no additional clarification. There is no question that the Constitution provides for the Vice President to "take over" in times of "inability." It also seems to me clear that the section "intends" the President to resume his duties whenever he feels he is able.

Many, however, feel that Congress should by law or Constitutional amendment spell out (1) who is to determine presidential inability and (2) the procedure for a President to resume the powers and duties of his office. My own opinion is that the President can, without resigning, authorize the Vice President to act for him. I further believe that the Constitution "directs" the Vice President to make the decision if the President is unable to act. However, history demonstrates that Vice Presidents have been reluctant to use the authority granted to them by the Constitution. But the fact that they have not exercised the power does not mean they could not.

There are two principal proposals before the Judiciary Committee now. One would set up a mixed commission composed of representatives of the Executive, Legislative, and Judicial branches of the Government. This commission would decide when a President is disabled if the President were unable or unwilling to certify his own inability. The other would authorize the Vice President to declare himself acting President upon the convening of Congress in emergency session.

I am of the opinion that Congress cannot by law clarify the issue and that it must be done by constitutional amendment. I am hopeful of early action by the Judiciary Committee on this important problem and a speedy acceptance by Congress of the Committee's recommendations.

On My Calendar

Debate Mounts Over Original Okla. Oil Men

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP)—There's growing debate over who were Oklahoma's original "oil men."

It's a cinch they weren't the rich-over-night tycoons of the rip and roaring 1920s. Some historians say an Indian drilled an oil well in Oklahoma before the 1859 well in Pennsylvania generally credited as the first in America.

In 1846, A. M. Upshaw, an agent with the Chickasaw Indians, told of "medicine springs" in his report to the Commissioner of Indian Affairs in Washington, D. C.

Upshaw described the springs as oil seepages. Two years later he reported both "Indians and Texans" were using skimmed oil from springs for medicinal purposes.

In 1853 the agent who succeeded Upshaw, A. J. Smith, described more fully the springs.

He wrote: "Oil springs are located at the foot of the Wichita mountains on the Washita River . . . a great many Texans, and some from Arkansas, visit the springs."

Smith reported the crude oil as being "a remedy for all chronic diseases, including rheumatism and dropsy . . ."

And Smith added confidently: "The fact is that it cures anything that has been tried."

At least six oil seepage springs were reported by Smith and Upshaw and succeeding Indian agents.

Apparently, one spring — Boyd Springs near Ardmore in southern Oklahoma — yielded some natural gas as well as the thick, green crude oil.

A phamphlet titled "The National Oil Trust Co." noted in 1886 that Indians camped at Boyd Springs in great numbers because they could "light their camp with the gas, by inserting a tube or gun barrel into the ground."

The late Oklahoma historian, Robert L. Owens, wrote that Lewis Ross, brother of the principal chief of the Cherokees, was salt mining in the summer of 1859 at Grand Saline, on the Grand River, and hit oil at 700 feet.

Owen reported the vein "flowed by estimate, about 10 barrels of oil per day for nearly a year, until the pressure of gas became exhausted and failed to support the volume of water."

The Drake well in Pennsylvania — regarded as the first in the world — was drilled to 69½ feet and pumped 10 to 20 barrels of oil a day. It was completed in August, 1859.

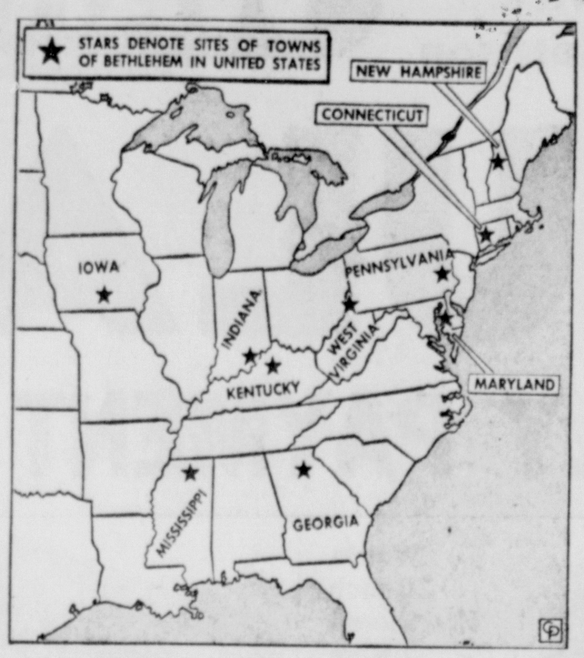
Nine U.S. Bethlehems Live Up To Names

By JOHN F. SEMBOWER
Central Press

Nine "little towns of Bethlehem" and one not-so-small city proudly wearing that name borrow much of the spirit and atmosphere of the original Bethlehem for the United States during the Christmas season.

Although some of the Bethlehems consist of only a few houses, the citizens of each community give ample indication that they feel a special responsibility to carry on tradition which impelled the founders to choose that name, and for weeks some of their postmarks have been girdling the globe as a special embellishment for Yuletide cards and packages.

The thriving industrial city of Bethlehem, Pa., with a population of 70,000, is by far the most urban of the namesakes of the City of the Nativity, but none keeps brighter a community tradition linked with its Old World name.



Founded in December, 1741, by religious exiles from Bohemia and Moravia, who came to America under the leadership of Bishop David Nitschmann, influenced by Count Zinsendorf, Bethlehem, Pa., again centers its Christmas celebration this year about the historic Central Moravian church, where on Christmas Eve the story of the Nativity will be told again in the Moravian traditional manner, as it has been done without interruption for 214 years.

Nearby a huge star of Bethlehem towers nearly 100 feet above South mountain, and is visible for 20 miles down the Lehigh valley.

Besides the special accent on Christmas there is little comparison, however, between the Pennsylvania city and modern Bethlehem in Israel. That ancient town site first was garrisoned by the Philistines in the time of Saul and was the early home of David.

Old Bethlehem had fallen into obscurity, from which it emerged gloriously on the night when Jesus was born. Three hundred years later it was again a virtual wilderness, but it was hallowed ground for the Crusaders who helped to revive it.

Today it is a relatively prosperous city of less than 10,000 population with many good houses, and is almost a suburb of Jerusalem only five miles to the north, although it is across the line in Jordan.

The Grotto of the Nativity there is one of the great religious shrines of the earth, and the chief occupation is the manufacture and sale of mementoes made from mother-of-pearl, olive wood, and "Dead Sea stone."

The atmosphere of Bethlehem remains largely pastoral, and it has this in common with most of the American communities which have taken its name.

At Bethlehem, N. H., summer vacationers who swell the population to 6,000 are gone and on Christmas Eve the 1,000 year-round residents will listen to caroling groups of high school students making traditional tours along snowy roads in the White mountains. The small post office has been handling about a thousand pieces of mail each day, and decorating them with a special cachet since Dec. 1.

Bethlehem, Conn., a rural village of 1,200, does the liveliest Christmas mail business of any of the Bethlehems in the New World. During the last two weeks before Chritmas, it will have remailed more than 250,000 cards and packages to all parts of the English-speaking world.

That task done, the citizens will gather on Christmas Eve around a lighted creche on the village green, a community project, and in the crisp winter air mark the Nativity of Christ.

For some reason, mail never has been directed in volume to Bethlehem, Ga., so that there has been some concern in that community of 300 lest the post office would be closed. Christmas is celebrated there in the Bethlehem Baptist church.

In Bethlehem, Miss., there is no suggestion of snow in the air for the 40 persons in the hamlet, but they pride themselves on "celebrating Christmas just like people everywhere."

The Westminster Youth organization takes charge of the carol singing each year as Bethlehem, W. Va., a town of 1,600, marks the season. In Bethlehem, Ky., the 150 persons in the community celebrate Christmas quietly in the Bethlehem Baptist and Bethlehem Methodist churches.

The Ohio river community of Bethlehem, Ind., population about 100, follows Old World customs of caroling, often in costumes, as part of traditions dating back many years in southern Indiana and Illinois communities.

Next-to-the-smallest Bethlehem of them all—Bethlehem, Md., with only 30 homes and a hundred residents — has one of the warmest traditions for how it got its name. It was named for a star, seen by Francis Asbury, the first Methodist bishop in the United States, when he first visited the scene 150 years ago.

The tiniest Bethlehem—Bethlehem, Ia.—with only 25 persons still living there, also proudly wears its Christmas tradition. A stopping place in 1846 for Mormon wagon trains, homesick travelers gave it the name on a Christmas Eve when it had more than 300 residents.

There is not even a post office there any more, but there still are a few houses and the inevitable church, where on Christmas Eve the children will stage an annual pageant, their eyes shining all the brighter because they, too, are in Bethlehem.

Soldiers At Hospital Help Tokyo Orphanage

TOKYO, Japan — Impassioned and somewhat toothless smiles met a delegation from the Tokyo U. S. Army Hospital recently during a visit to the local Seiko-ryo Salvation Army Girls Home.

The 45 waifs thereby indicated that they knew the renovated kitchen with its new gas range, sink, and other equipment, and the futons (roll-up bed mats) with covers were gifts of the TUSAH Orphanage Fund.

As has been the practice ever since the hospital began to cosponsor the orphanage more than two years ago, the gifts were no hit-or-miss gesture of generosity. They were selected after a survey visit by the Orphanage Committee and consultation with Salvation Army authorities on the most pressing needs.

The kitchen will allow for the preparation of a more varied and nourishing diet for the girls than has been possible in the past, caretakers of the Home state.

In special appreciation of the 40 futons, the youngsters violated the international code of childhood by asking to be allowed to go to bed ahead of schedule that first day.

Personnel at the Army hospital donated $686.24 for these most recent gifts.

Chaplain (Major) Dean W. Dryden of (418 S. Workman St.) Lyons, Kans., is president of the committee, which is now studying its next orphanage project. Assisting him are First Lieutenant Lacy K. Barnett of (Rt. 1) Empire, Ala., and WAC Master Sergeant Elizabeth K. O'Keefe of (17A Ellsworth St.) Everett, Mass. Chief Warrant Officer Marcel Givens of West Fork, Ala., hospital treasurer, is fund custodian.

Subway Strike Also Has Its Funny Side

By J. M. ROBERTS
Associated Press News Analyst

You take a man or a woma cut off from home by New Yor City's distances, or a man or woman cut off from work, wit telephones in some areas no working too well, multiply then by a couple of million, and you have an explosive situation.

You get danger in swelling crowds. It was a pretty nasty situation for a while in Pennsylvania Station Monday night, when the train waiting Long Islanders, fugitive from strike-snarled subways, began to surge and shout.

You get wives separated from husbands, children separated from parents. The smell of panic is omnipresent, like the smell of spilled gasoline, waiting to be touched off.

At some moments elbows, become spears, and shoulders battering rams.

A subway guard shouts "What are you, animals?"

Then, as the car fills to where it is hard to breathe, someone steps on another's foot and says "Oh, I'm so sorry," and the other laughs "How can I blame you."

Taut faces relax a little, and there are a few smiles.

A girl behind you says to her friend "Hell, my boss has a car and a chauffeur and never reads the papers. He probably won't even believe me."

Someone else, sweat gathering on his forehead, says "Gosh, you'd think they'd open some windows." Everybody's soaked from the underground clamminess of a rainy day and the press of body against body. The conductors couldn't get through to windows even if they tried.

But the train is moving toward their goals. People stop being animals, and become more polite. There is far greater conversation between strangers than on an ordinary day.

They begin to laugh at the people "upstairs," who tried to use their automobiles and are caught in great jams. A small group of high school boys and girls, happy in their excusable lateness, begin to sing.

London Newspaper Reports U.S. 'Gag' Put On Momentous British Discovery

LONDON, Dec. 12 (AP)—The Liberal News Chronicle said yesterday Britain has made a discovery in nuclear research that "is greater news than the launching of the Sputniks." The newspaper described it as the "creation of an artificial sun."

In an editorial, the News Chronicle said the discovery "ought to be shouted from the house tops," but declared the United States has refused to allow Britain to make an announcement.

The British Atomic Energy Authority cautiously reported several weeks ago some progress had been made toward harnessing the H-bomb, but since has refused to give any additional information.

The News Chronicle declared Britain has had a start of several years on the United States and Russia in taming the H-bomb for peaceful uses and now is ready to announce its "terrific potentialities."

"But under a tripartite agreement, signed by Britain, America and Canada," the newspaper said, "a top secret announcement like this one can be released only with full approval of the three signatories—and America is withholding her consent."

The paper said "America's refusal... seems too silly to be true."

"No satisfactory reasons have been stated," the editorial went on. "Rightly or wrongly, the man in the street is left to assume that America is merely playing for time. But this is not the way partnerships should work, and, as Russia has shown, atomic achievements can be brilliant national propaganda."

Prime Minister Macmillan said in a television speech last night British scientists working on the civilian use of hydrogen explosions may be heading for "a completely new source of power absolutely unknown before."

He said its raw material "could be got out of the sea itself."

"That's a long way off," Macmillan added, "but meanwhile we are well in the forefront of atomic development."

Dec. 25 Red Holiday

MOSCOW, Dec. 12 (AP)—The Soviet Ukraine's government has decreed that Dec. 25 will be a holiday. It's not to celebrate Christmas, but the 40th anniversary of the Ukrainian Republic, which happens to fall on the same day.

About one-twelfth of the total population of the United States can be seated at the same time in the nation's motion picture theaters.

Men may not come right out and call a woman a lady very often today, but what they think doesn't change.

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

The Lady Is A Stand-out

The traditional word was gentlewoman. And there was good reason for the gentle in the word for lady—she WAS gentle or the compliment didn't fit. This is as true today as it ever was. Despite new positions of leadership women have, a woman must be gentle in bearing, voice and manner to be the lady who is still the stand-out.

The world will never change enough to keep men from setting gentle, lady-like qualities higher in their judgment of a woman than any others. Feminine appeal has many sides, but these inspire in men the deepest kind of appreciation of the women they know in business, socially, and romantically. Call it old-fashioned, but who says men aren't old-fashioned when it comes to the women in their lives?

It's said that headlong pursuit of a career loses many women much of their femininity. This may be true of some reputedly successful women, but it's never true of the most outstanding. They win the undying admiration of men because their charm and gentleness shows as clearly as their ability and success. I've asked many of them for their advice to women in careers, and a subject that's never omitted is the importance of developing fundamental worth as a person, which usually includes worth as a feminine person. One woman executive told me:

"We have no luck here with any girl who is short on womanly grace no matter what her talents or contributions to our work. Her manner and inability to win the proper respect of others holds her back while someone else progresses. I think, John, that the straightforward advice—be a lady—should come at the top of the tips on how to be a business success just as it should for success in any other department of a woman's life. Happily, I can say that the advice is less and less needed. Young girls on their way up today are wonders in every way and I couldn't be prouder of them."

Sentence Is Deferred At Moonshine Hearing

Alvin Boor, 43, this city, entered a plea of guilty yesterday in Trial Magistrate Court on a charge of possession of an apparatus designed for the unlawful manufacture of alcoholic beverages.

Trial Magistrate J. Milton Dick deferred sentence in the case and ordered the man to refrain from drinking alcoholic beverages. He was released following the hearing.

Boor, a former employe of the Street Department, was arrested on November 21 by Charles D. McLane, agent for the Alcoholic Beverage Tax Unit of the Maryland Comptroller's office, and Detective Joseph H. Stitcher of the City Police Department.

County and city officials had been investigating complaints of the illegal still and called in the state agent who obtained a warrant from Magistrate Dick.

Authorities at that time said a homemade still was set up in part of the basement of Boor's home. They said they found 10 to 15 gallons of cracked corn mash fermenting in a wooden barrel near a homemade still formed from half-inch copper pipe.

Volume Of Holiday Mail Running Ahead Of 1956

Cancellations at the Post Office have shown a steady increase for the first four days of the week, according to John B. Wolfhope, superintendent of mails, who pointed out that the volume is still below expectations.

Wednesday's total was 46,800, compared to 50,100 for the same date last year. Tuesday's cancellations, 37,500, were also lower than the number on December 10, 1956, when 42,900 were registered.

Wolfhope said that despite this two-day lag, total cancellations for Monday, Tuesday and yesterday were about 6,000 more than for the same period last year. The 1957 total is 116,500, compared to 100,875 in 1956.

On Monday, Wolfhope explained, cancellations soared to 32,200, while on the same date last year they numbered but 7,875. Expectations are that cancellations will set a new record this year, erasing the 1,182,900 established in 1956, Wolfhope said. A new mark for one-day cancellations is also anticipated, he continued, explaining that the record in that category, 175,400, was also set last year, on December 17.

Postmaster Thomas F. Conlon said early mailing of Christmas cards and gifts is the biggest single factor in getting mail delivered before Christmas. In view of the anticipated late rush, he urged residents to complete their mailing as soon as possible, adding that such action will also enable postal employes to spend Christmas Eve and Christmas Day with their families.

Facilities at the main Post Office, Station A in South Cumberland and the LaVale Branch station have been expanded to facilitate fast handling of mail, Conlon stated. Extra help is also available for peak periods, but few have had to be hired so far. With the exception of Monday, when parcel post matter was unusually heavy, there has been no need for extra help.

As a suggestion for packages that might be exposed to wet weather, Conlon said it is wise for people to include an extra label with the return address and recipient's address on the package before it is wrapped.

The postmaster said another good idea is to place a piece of transparent tape over the addresses on a package to help prevent defacing in transit.

90 Students Seek Awards

Ninety Maryland students are among 7,500 of America's brightest high school seniors who are semifinalists for $4 million worth of National Merit Scholarship Corporation scholarships to be given away to 1958 high school graduates.

Montgomery County sets the Maryland pace with 41 of the 90 semi-finalists. The rest include 26 from Baltimore City, 11 from Baltimore County, five from Prince George's County, four from Anne Arundel County and one each from Frederick, Washington and Wicomico counties.

Allegany and Garrett are among 16 Maryland counties without a semifinalist. It is the first time in the three years of the National Merit Scholarship Corporation competition that Allegany County has no semifinalists.

The group of 7,500 semi-finalists represent about one-half of one per cent of the national senior class and is composed of the students with the highest test scores in each state, prorated according to high school senior population.

Merit scholarships are sponsored by over 60 business and industrial firms as well as by professional societies, foundations and individuals. The Sears-Roebuck Foundation is the largest sponsor with 100 awards worth $500,000 being granted annually.

Driver Has Long Wait

A local motorist had a long cold wait for a freight train Wednesday night — and if it hadn't been for a watchman he might still be waiting.

It seems the man drove up Baltimore Street past the detour signs to the Western Maryland Railway tracks and stopped his auto to wait out a freight train.

After the train had passed, the man approached the tracks and waited for the watchman's signal. After a short time the watchman walked down to the car and informed the motorist that the Baltimore Street bridge was closed, and if he wanted to cross he would have to wait at least until today.

Like the man* says,
you have to get behind the wheel

From the pages of Automotive News, authoritative industry newspaper, comes this impartial report on the newest car in the world

*by L. H. HOUCK
Traveling Correspondent, Automotive News

"The Edsel is a car that should be road-tested.

"We have all driven cars with lazy front ends, but here is one that has life—the Edsel seems to know where you're going. With the surge of power from the new engine, it is equal to all occasions and yet the wheel rests lightly in your hands. Driving is almost effortless, yet with a confidence-inspiring feeling of control.

"Wherever you go the Edsel attracts attention. At one place in the almost 1,500 miles we drove this Edsel two-door hardtop Pacer, some kids across the street from a service station shouted: 'Hey, look! An Edsel!'

"If I were selling this car from the retail floor, I just wouldn't overlook anybody. It has something that will appeal to every type of buyer.

IF DRIVING TIRES YOU

"If driving on long trips or in dense city traffic tires you, then the Edsel is the car for you.

"Why is this so? Much of it has been engineered into the car from the first plan on the drawing boards. Much of it comes from reduced motion. You can control the automatic transmission by easy, power-operated pushbuttons in the hub of the steering wheel. The novice will get accustomed to them in five minutes, no matter what car he is driving, because they're as handy as a pocket in a shirt and a lot closer.

"The man who fights traffic to work and back twice a day needs to learn how much an Edsel can do for him. It'll be a revelation and save half his energy.

"Much of it comes from the 'all go and no slow' engine which it has, coupled with big, fast operating, self-adjusting brakes. These new brakes adjust themselves and can save a man a lot of dollars during a normal term of ownership.

STAINLESS STEEL USE

"What's it made out of and how long will it last? The Edsel bill of materials includes nothing but quality. In stainless steel alone, it probably leads the list, for it has 36 pounds of this non-rusting and almost indestructible material in every car. Everybody likes to own this kind of quality.

CAN'T MISTAKE EDSEL

"If you've ever owned a medium-priced or better car and had a service station attendant mistake it for a cheaper car, you'll know what Edsel engineers were striving for when they said they wanted to design a car that could be identified in the dark.

"You don't have to rub the dust off the nameplate on the Edsel to discover its identity. From front or rear, you can tell an Edsel a block away.

IF YOU DRIVE FOR A LIVING

"I stopped a taxi driver who was using an Edsel.

" 'Do a day and a half in a day now,' he said, 'or at least I feel that much better when I get home at the end of a shift. It's easy, arm-chair comfort.'

"You don't have to be carrying the mail to have a job that requires going every day in all kinds of weather. Edsel has speed for turnpikes, expressways and open highways and roadability for the logging road, the byway and the farm lane.

MOST PRE-TESTED CAR

"Some prospect is sure to say that the Edsel is too new, intimating that it is untried, and if he's like the thousands who have gone before him, he will say that he'll wait a few years and see how it turns out.

"The Edsel is undoubtedly the most pre-tested car ever offered to the public.

"Edsel test drivers raced 38 Edsels for a total of 1,500,000 miles over a two-year test period. Punishment? They drove these miles in the 118-degree heat of Death Valley and the 40-below cold of Minnesota.

"Back of it is 50 years—half a century of engineering skill—11 years of actual planning and testing. The Edsel's got more that's new than any new car has ever had, and all the new has been virtually tested to destruction.

MORE NEW IDEAS

"Edsel offers a lot to the gadget-minded. For example, every salesman has heard owners wish for an oil gauge on the dash. Edsel has a row of warning lights on the dash. One warns when oil is one quart low, another when the gas tank has only two gallons left, another warns of a hot engine.

"Edsel offers a tachometer as an option and this tachometer sports a couple of green dots, one at about 900 r.p.m. and the other at about 2500. When the owner keeps the needle between those dots he knows he is operating the engine at its greatest economy."

HAVE YOU ROAD-TESTED THE NEWEST CAR IN THE WORLD?

It's an experience no one should miss. When you do, your Edsel Dealer will give you a scale-model Edsel as a gift for your child. This 8-inch, full-color, precision-made plastic model has movable wheels, rubber tires, traction drive.

Alternatives To Freedom

NAM President Ernest G. Swigert, in his keynote speech to the NAM Congress at the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel in New York, spoke of a "trend toward complete government control" which, he said, threatened the early destruction of the last vestiges of representative government. He added:

"The time may come when we will be unable to choose our own careers, change jobs, start a business, buy or sell property, take out a mortgage, move from place to place, borrow money, or even send our children to college without getting permission from some government bureaucrat."

This is the way things are in Russia, the way they would be in a hypothetical Communist America. But Mr. Swigert seems to be looking at current American trends through dark glasses. By his own yardstick, they haven't gone very far to date.

Most of the restrictions that do exist in the areas mentioned are not imposed by government. University officials bar pupils unless they meet certain academic standards. Bankers will not lend money to poor risks. Property cannot be sold unless a buyer is found, or bought by those who cannot pay the price.

The government also imposes various restrictions on the individual, and their reasonableness can be debated. Certainly no American in his right mind favors imposition of more government restrictions.

But America is still one of the freest countries in the world, despite the passing of the physical frontier, a more congested population, mass production, and speedy travel and communication. Men such as Swigert are doing a real service in warning the nation against the alternatives to freedom.

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

Bez Sputniki

I received a most amazing letter from a reader which might have been written 10 years ago but actually was written in 1957. It just goes to show how the facts of life do not influence our predispositions:

"Let us put a stop to this happy campaign to convince the American people that 'We are Panicky', or beginning to panic over our little Sputnick that Russia borrowed. Anything she has borrowed, we still have."

Unfortunately the Russians did not borrow the Sputnik from us and we do not have a Sputnik. It is this tone of arrogant superiority which really gets us into trouble. No country has a monopoly of brains.

The pity of it is that too many Americans believe that there is no cause to be excited over the failure of Vanguard, the failure of Thor, the failure to maintain our position in the world while spending billions of dollars, much of which must be wasted or the results could not have been so unfortunate.

When one complains of chauvinistic self-satisfied complacency, he is either regarded as a kill-joy or as a Communist, whereas only those who are shrieking to high heaven against those who have disgraced us in the eyes of our neighbors are doing anything to maintain here an effective government within constitutional limitations. One of the real dangers is that continued, obvious inefficiencies could drive us onto a permanent war basis and a permanent war basis must bring on a dictatorial government, of one kind or another.

When President Eisenhower took office and appointed what his opponents called the Cadillac Cabinet, the public was pleased because the assumption was that men who had made enormous successes of their own affairs would bring to government an ability and a competence which in the past the American people are supposed not to have received from the lawyers and politicians in high places. Surely, it was argued that a man like Charles Wilson who did so well with General Motors would do equally well in the Department of Defense.

It was not so. The Russians got the Sputnik and we got the Flopnik. What is the explanation? In General Motors, Wilson was operating in an atmosphere of comparative freedom where failure, at best, was a tax deduction; in the Department of Defense, Wilson was beset by impractical limitations, by pressures of every kind, by generals and admirals and all sorts of officers and by military traditions that have come down since General Steuben wrote his "Manual for the Order and Discipline" of George Washington's army.

Our military establishment works well in time of war but becomes full of politics and back-biting and small empire-building in time of peace. After each war, the top men in these services generally get jobs in private industry or with private educational or social institutions, which means a total loss to the country of our men of greatest ability.

For instance, Douglas MacArthur is making safety razors and carbon paper for Sperry Rand, Eisenhower is President of the United States after having been president of Columbia University, Clay is making tin cans for Continental Can and so it goes down the line. The United States is throwing away experience, knowledge and wisdom by an arbitrary and inflexible retirement.

Anti-intellectualism is not paying off in the United States. The man who can sell tooth paste cannot make a Sputnik nor does he know what a Sputnik is nor can he understand the basic scientific ideas which precede the application of ideas to products. While a jobber in stocks and bonds may earn a million a year and a scientist only $15,000 as tops, the stock-jobber may engage in a questionable trade whereas that poorly-paid, funnily-dressed scientist may save all our lives. A sense of proportion requires us to recognize that such a paragraph as the following is absolute nonsense:

"Students with the highest 'IQ' do not necessarily have the good old fashioned guts, and inquisitive minds, to dig for a solution, and keep right on shoveling until they find those seemingly impossible answers."

The fellow with excessive viscera will not find the answer as to how to orbit a Sputnik or how to build a rocket to stop a rocket. To do that a fellow needs to know mathematics, physics, chemistry, at least, most of it out of books.

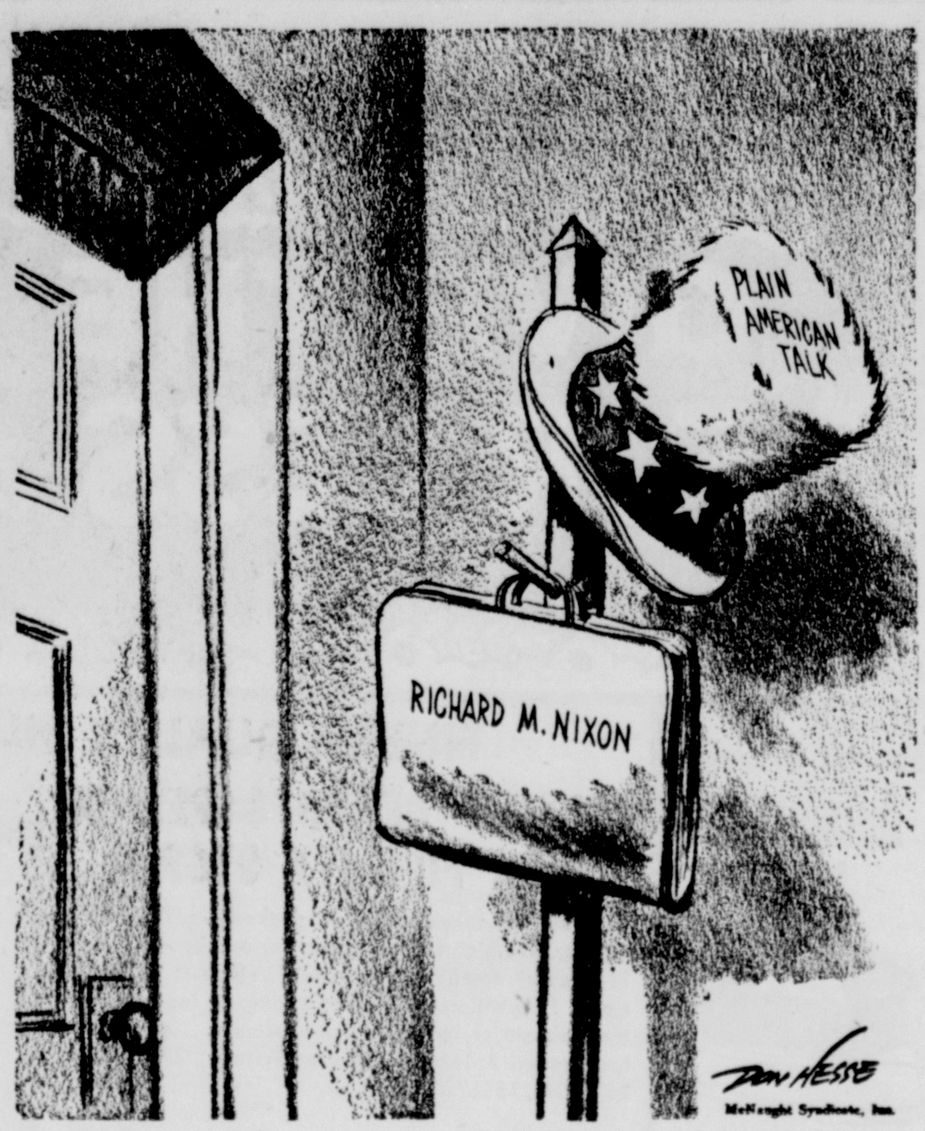
And Wearing It Very Well



U. S. Faces One Of Ugliest Choices In History

By Joseph Alsop

BIERUT, Lebanon

The Kremlin has already secretly promised to champion the Arab cause against Israel. If the Soviets keep this promise, the American policy-makers will be automatically faced with just about the ugliest choice in the history of American foreign relations. For the long run, these are even graver facts than the crisis of confidence in the Western Alliance.

The choice that probably lies ahead is so ugly because years of fecklessness and flabbiness have left the Western powers squarely over a barrel in the Middle East. If the Soviets propose the effective destruction of the state of Israel and we oppose Israel's destruction, the main result will almost surely be the progressive destruction of every Western vital interest in the Arab lands.

The trouble is that the Kremlin's maneuver will catch all the friendly Arab governments between their own pro-Western policy and the incandescent anti-Israeli passions of their peoples. These governments in Jordan, Iraq, Saudi Arabia and elsewhere may accept the Kremlin's championship. Indeed, the Saudis already are preparing to do so. Yet their Western associations will still tend to impair their positions in a fatal way, if the West is defending Israel while the Kremlin attacks it.

This, of course, is the Kremlin's real purpose. The promised championship of the Arabs against Israel is only a lever, as it were. The lever is not intended to bring down Israel. It is intended to bring down the Arab governments friendly to the West, and to replace them with new governments on the Syrian model.

This crisis that looms ahead will be all the more dangerous, moreover, because it will arise in a way that will enormously encourage casuistry and self-delusion. To understand why this is so, past history must be shortly recapitulated.

In brief, the frontiers laid down in the United Nations Palestine resolution of 1947 seem to have been traced in a lunatic asylum. They partitioned Palestine into little Arab bits and little Jewish pieces. The Arabs went to war to prevent partition. They were badly beaten. And the war ended with the Israelis holding most of the bits of Palestine that the U. N. had allotted to the Arabs.

Since then, "a return to the U. N. frontiers of 1947" has become the prime Arab demand. It is just this demand that the Soviets have promised to support. This may seem legal and even reasonable, since what appears to be involved is merely the enforcement of the original U. N. resolution setting up a Jewish state.

But in the first place, something like a million and a half Jewish immigrants have poured into Palestine since 1948. Every inch of the territory Israel now holds is already filled to overflowing. Thus a return to the 1947 frontiers will only aid the million tragic Arab refugees from Palestine, at the expense of creating a million or more equally tragic Jewish refugees. In the second place, a return to these lunatic frontiers will mean the effective end of Israel as a state. This is really why the Arabs want it.

In these grim practical circumstances, a very large majority of the American diplomats in Arab lands favor a "compromise" policy. They recognize that an actual return to the 1947 frontiers is not feasible. But they still would like to pacify the Arabs by offering them fairly large chunks of what is now Israeli territory.

This is the sort of thing that Secretary of State Dulles and Sir Anthony Eden had in mind a couple of years ago, when they tried long and fruitlessly to negotiate a settlement of the Palestine question with Egypt's Gamal Abdel Nasser. It did not work then. It is even less likely to work now, for a transparently obvious reason.

If we offer the Arabs one pound of Israeli flesh, the Soviets will offer them two pounds. If we offer two, the Soviets will offer three. And so it will go. Unless we are in fact prepared to join with the Soviets in advocating the effective elimination of the state of Israel from the world map, we cannot hope to win this kind of bidding competition for Arab favor. Since we cannot conceivably go so far, it will be better not to enter the competition at all.

This does not mean there are no measures which can be taken and should be taken to soften the injustice that has been done to the Palestinian Arabs. There should be local, piecemeal territorial readjustments, to reunite the cruelly divided Arab frontier villages. There should be a bold program for the refugees, including an offer of repatriation, ample compensation and opportunities to find new homes. There should be a hard and fast guarantee to all the Arabs that the Israelis will not be permitted to extend their borders by another inch.

But there is no use supposing that these things which can be done and should be done will in any way satisfy the Arabs. There is no way to satisfy the Arabs except by Israel's effective destruction. So the alternative of "compromise" is ruled out, and the question still remains whether anything can be done to safeguard Western vital interests in the Middle East.

Baering Down On The News

By Arthur "Bugs" Baer

Twelve semesters ago this stack of second-squints diagnosed the Moscovellian policy of hate-and-run.

It mapped false alarms in all directions and ground-moling along the meridians. It involved espionage at the micro-film level. And the slimiest treachery since Nero booked his mother on a drop-bottom passenger boat.

You might figure the price of treason would keep pace with the ups of subway fares. But it's still a wooden nickel.

In the roster of home-cured traitors the name of Benedict Arnold almost has become respectable. Benedict didn't sell West Point while Blanchard and Davis were there.

The bitterest twist in this spy spiral is we are keeping secrets from our friends that our enemies already know.

That goes back a bit further than a freight brakeman with a lantern. If we had kept some secrets from our friends our enemies would never have known them.

That means Dr. Klaus Fuchs and Allan Nunn May who started the lopsided ball rolling and the biscuit to breaking.

From then on the treachery snowballed into a tough winter. We jugged some and fried others but it was too late for a Samson to lock the stabledoors of Gaza.

Pentagon Sends Censor To Check On Senate Missile Investigators

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON—Senators probing our "smugniks in sputniks" may not know it, but a secret censor has been appointed in the Pentagon to review, and if necessary suppress, information to be sent to the missile investigating committee. He is Robert Dechert, counsel for the Defense Department, whose job it is to see that the Senators get no information too embarrassing to the administration.

Despite this, the Senators have laid hands on one dynamite-laden document, labeled RM-1760, dated June 21, 1956, which as far back as a year and a half ago gave grim warning of Russia's missile might.

The secret report was based on Soviet technical journals which have proved amazingly frank—when the administration could spare the money to translate them.

Quoting these technical journals, the secret RM-1760 report revealed 18 months ago that Russia was combining military missiles into one powerful "launch vehicle" capable of hurling a one-ton satellite aloft. Later, it developed that the Russian satellite weighed only half a ton, which was about 1,000 pounds heavier than our "kaputnik."

350,000,000 HP

The secret report also revealed that Russia was building a mammoth moon rocket to be powered by 20 rocket motors.

Despite this, the Eisenhower administration flatly ignored the warning, secretly slashed research funds and even slowed down our missile production schedule. The budget-first boys, led by Assistant President Sherman Adams and then Secretary of the Treasury George Humphrey, persuaded Ike it was more important to give the voters a tax cut.

They slapped a ceiling on defense spending that almost threw the missile program into a tail-spin. Not until the Soviet sputniks awakened the public to what the administration knew 18 months before were the research cutbacks restored and the missile program speeded up.

Here's what RM-1760, a technical intelligence report prepared for the Air Force by the Rand Corporation, revealed two summers ago:

1. That Russia had already started construction of a moon rocket about 200 feet long and 40 feet in diameter. It would be driven to the moon by 20 rocket motors, capable of generating 350,000,000 horsepower. At take-off, 75 per cent of its gross weight would be fuel.

2. That the Soviets were building a four-stage satellite launcher which could catapult a one-ton payload into an orbit 125 to 1,000 miles above the earth. Significantly, this was described as a "product of the T-3 (intercontinental ballistics missile) program."

3. That the Russians were completing a 160-foot ICBM, weighing 250 tons, with a range of 5,000 miles. This is the terrible T-3 whose first stages, the report said, are T-1 and T-2 intermediate missiles.

4. That Russia "started production" in 1956 of the T-2, an 85-ton ballistic missile with an 1,800-mile range. Its lox-kerosene motor produced 245,000 pounds thrust, almost twice what our best engine can do now.

5. That the Russians were also producing the T-4, a "supersonic glide missile," which could sail 1,000 miles on thin wings.

Space-Ship Men

6. That they were developing a manned rocket bomber able to soar over 100 miles into space for distances up to 10,000 miles. Already flight-tested, this is the nearest man has come to building a manned space ship.

7. That 18 months ago the Soviets had already produced a rocket fuel that could get 40 per cent more thrust out of an engine without increasing its size or weight.

8. That they were producing at least two manned rocket planes, the YAK-21 and LA-17, comparable to our X-1 and X-2 experimental planes.

9. That Russia already had manned rocket interceptors, capable of shooting down jet bombers, stationed around her arms centers.

10. That the Soviet arsenal is bristling with lesser rockets and missiles, including several that can be launched from submarines under water for distances up to 750 miles.

The shocking RM-1760 report dismissed the suggestion that Russia was relying on imported German scientists and stolen secrets for her rocket development.

"Quick to realize the enormous military potential of the rocket," the report declares, "the Soviet government organized a government-sponsored rocket research program in 1934, eight years before similar systematic Army-sponsored research began in the United States."

What the Senators would like to know is why RM-1760 went unheeded and why the truth about Soviet missile power has been withheld from the public.

Note: Central Intelligence chief Allen Dulles warned Senators behind closed doors that Russia is ahead of us in every military field except atomic submarines. He claimed the Soviets are a "couple of years" ahead in satellites and intercontinental missiles. Asked why his warnings weren't heeded, Dulles replied with a shrug that it wasn't his responsibility.

Money Rates

By Roger Babson

BABSON PARK, Mass., Dec. 12—During the past two weeks there has been much in the newspapers commending the Federal Reserve for reducing its rediscount rate from 3½ per cent to 3 per cent. Now you wonder how much this helps your local bank.

First, let me explain just what this "reduction" means. Your local bank may need temporary extra funds certain times of the year to loan to some local industries. These are those which must borrow seasonally to buy raw materials or merchandise but which are out of debt most of the year. To secure such extra funds your local bank may borrow of the nearest big city bank where it carries its main account.

Upon the same principle, there are times when this big city bank may need extra funds. It then either sells government bonds or uses such government bonds as collateral to borrow from its District Federal Reserve Bank. There are 12 of these—one for each of the 12 federal districts into which the U. S. is divided.

If one of the District Federal Reserve Banks is temporarily short of funds, it borrows of the Central "Feds," located at New York and Chicago. It is the Federal Reserve System which has lowered the rate from 3½ per cent to 3 per cent on loans made not to your bank, or to you, but to one or more of the district banks mentioned above.

These district banks, in turn, loan to the big city banks, which then may loan to your local bank. So you see it is a long time before this ½ per cent reduction filters through to your local bank, if any of it gets through. Certainly no reader can expect a reduction in local interest rates on account of this small reduction by the Central Federal Reserve.

More Deposits Needed

Every reader of this column should realize that, in the long run, a bank can loan to customers only what it receives in deposits.

When next in your local bank, ask for its last printed statement. You will quickly see that the bank's own money (shown by Capital and Surplus) is relatively small. The money which you borrow is not the bank's money, but it is your neighbors' money. When too many "neighbors" reduce their deposits, then the bank should reduce its loans.

Banks, therefore, should work harder for deposits. The simplest way is to increase the interest rate on deposits. Another way is to spend more on advertising. To benefit from a higher rate on deposits or to make extra advertising pull, banks should "get off their high horse." Banks need lessons in public relations. Bank employes should be more courteous and be "salesmen" for their banks. They may need to keep their banks open longer hours and perhaps Friday or Saturday nights. Depositors facetiously remark that the bank charges interest just the same whether open for business or not!

Other Sources Of Aid

Many investors who read this column noted how the stock market jumped up when the Federal Reserve rate was reduced. When, however, people began to think through and see that this reduction would not help their community, the stock market fell off again. In other words, this reduction will not cause consumers to buy more goods or manufacturers to employ more help. Therefore, wise investors are not buying more stocks now on the small reduction in interest rates by the "Fed."

The U. S. Government could, however, do three things which might help the stock market: (1) Lower the required margin which brokers are now forced to demand of speculators; (2) buy more governments from the banks, giving them more free money to loan; and (3) reduce the reserves which banks are required to carry. In an emergency, one or more of these could be done. However, no emergency now exists which would justify these steps. Of course, reducing interest rates has already caused bonds to go up.

Health Hazards From Radioactive Strontium

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

Radioactive strontium is the most notorious fission product. As a result of testing of nuclear weapons, this element is present in fallouts from atomic bomb explosions. It scatters all over the world and studies show it to be widely detectable in soil and plant and animal material.

The substance is doing no harm at present and our nuclear scientists tell us we are a long way from the danger level. Our chief concern centers about future generations. Other countries may decide to experiment and, in case of war, atomic bombs may be detonated daily like so many firecrackers. But ingenious man usually finds a way to offset the devastating effects of new war developments.

The fate of strontium in the body is somewhat the same as that of calcium. Both are absorbed in the intestine and reach the bones via the blood. But the tissues prefer calcium, which is absorbed twice as readily and is excreted by the kidneys twice as fast. Even the mammary gland uses discrimination in keeping strontium out of calcium rich milk.

The close association between these two chemicals makes it difficult to prevent strontium from being absorbed but some progress is being made in removing it from the body. In experimental work, radioactive strontium is given to dogs and, by attaching the animal to an artificial kidney, approximately one-third of the material can be filtered from the blood.

The administration of certain cation exchange resins is equally effective when given immediately after strontium is administered orally. These chemicals act as blocking agents and prevent two-thirds of the radioactive material from entering the circulation.

Much more needs to be done before the proper antidote for strontium poisoning will be found. As each nuclear hazard appears, scientists plunge into action to comabt the new enemy.

FAT IN THE DIET

Mrs. J. P. writes: I'm a housewife who always has been interested in nutrition. The new ideas on fat confuse me. On one hand, we are told to include vegetable fats in the daily menus, and on the other, to keep our fat consumption low so we won't become overweight. Isn't this a contradiction?

REPLY

Yes. Those who gain weight from eating calorie packed vegetable oils will defeat the main purpose of our dietary program, which involves keeping down the weight and the chloresterol level of the blood. Overweight is overweight, whether it comes from animal or vegetable fats.

ECZEMA IN BABY

Mrs. L. writes: My infant has eczema and we have been changing his diet in case food is responsible. What are other causes?

REPLY

Food is the most commno cause of infantile eczema but the tot may be sensitive to wool or other fabrics in the clothing, home furnishings, or toys. Send a stamped self-addressed envelope for our leaflet on this topic.

NO ARTERIOSCOPE

C. J. writes: Is there an instrument to test the arteries to see how hard they are?

REPLY

No, not if you mean what you say. Various tests are used to determine the indirect effects of hardened arteries on the circulation to the heart, extremities, kidneys, and other organs. X-rays will show arteriosclerosis but will not disclose the extent of the process.

TOMORROW: Frostbite

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual diseases.

Try And Stop Me

By Bennett Cerf

Josh Logan, of "Mr. Roberts," "Picnic" and "Sayonara" fame, has a passion for buying houses, although he's not always sure what he's going to do with them. He bought one old mansion on the spur of the moment, explaining airily to his wife, Nedda, "I picked this one up for a song." "I know," she nodded gently, "a $75,000 song."

A burlesque "queen" boned up on English history for months, then entered a mammoth TV quiz contest and walked off with a $64,000 check. "This just proves," she pointed out, "that you can make much more grinding than you can bumping."

"What's become of that gorilla you told us you were engaged to last month?" asked one chorus gal of another. "I've forgotten all about him," was the disdainful answer. "He was just a passing fian-cy."

You're Telling Me!

A typical breakfast consumed by the average American was described by the British Broadcasting company as consisting of frozen orange juice, corn pone, pancakes, bacon and eggs, buckwheat cakes, waffles and coffee. What! no toast?

If a U. S. worker knocked off that kind of an a. m. meal he'd be in no shape for work — much less run for the bus.

Tokyo scientists predict the Japanese may soon send aloft an earth satellite. What'll they call it — a "Nipnik"?

In Malaya a wild boar dashed out of the jungle into the dining room of a hotel where he was killed, butchered, roasted and served for dinner. Oh, well, can't say he wasn't asking for it!

Promoters of the annual Munich, Germany, winter carnival are feuding over which of two beauties should reign as carnival princess. A pretty how-de-do!

Rail Stocks Speed Ahead, Rest Of Market Irregular

NEW YORK, Dec. 12 (AP) — Rail stocks enjoyed an unusual burst of popularity today, speeding ahead fractions to 2 points or more while the rest of the market turned in an irregular performance.

Such major groups as rubbers, chemicals, metals and motors ended mixed with gains and losses ranging from fractions to about 1 point. In a few cases price changes ran beyond the 1 point mark.

Steels were mostly a bit higher, rallying toward the finish, while aircraft-missile firms ended definitely lower.

The upturn in the rails accounted for an advance in market averages. In the Associated Press average of 60 stocks, which closed 90 cents higher at $156.70, the rail section boomed $4.40. Industrials declined 30 cents and utilities advanced 10 cents.

Gains of 2 points or more were posted by Baltimore & Ohio, Illinois Central, Kansas City Southern, Louisville and Nashville and Southern Railway.

New York Central was ahead 1½, Atlantic Coast Line 1⅜, Northern Pacific 1⅜, Southern Pacific 1⅜, Rock Island 1¼ and Nickel Plate 1¼.

United States Tobacco was the most active stock in the market. It rose to a new high for the year at 25½ early, fell back to 21¾ after rumors it was discussing a merger with Lorillard were denied and finished at 22⅝, off ⅜.

Santa Fe was second most active but its gain of ¾ fell short of that of many other rails. Standard Oil (NJ) was third most active, Polaroid fourth and Bethlehem Steel fifth.

Chrysler was weak, losing 1½ and selling at a new low for the year. Lukens advanced more than 1 point in steels with U.S. Steel and Republic slightly higher.

American Stock Exchange stocks closed mixed. Alabama Gas and Woodley Petroleum Advanced while Electric Bond & Share and Hall Lamp declined. Volume totaled 850,000 shares compared with 620,000 yesterday.

Corporate bonds closed higher. U.S. government bonds declined on small volume than in recent rising markets.

Dulles, Mr. Fixit Of Diplomacy, Beaten At Own Game

WASHINGTON, Dec. 12 (AP)—In one sense, John Foster Dulles has been beaten at his own game.

For years now he has been a Dr. Fixit of diplomacy, whirling—so it seemed—unceasingly about the world. And if in these complex times nothing ever gets settled completely, at least one could look up and see Dulles sailing by for another go at it.

Then along came the Russian Sputnik, which goes even faster and more spectacularly than Dulles, and American prestige took a beating.

Which, of course, makes it harder than ever for the secretary of state.

Dulles held a news conference Tuesday the final one before flying off for next week's meeting of the North Atlantic Allies in Paris. Naturally reporters were eager to know Dulles' plans, particularly in light of Democratic criticism that what this administration needs is a sense of urgency.

Curiously, for a man who bustles about so much, when he comes down to earth, Dulles seems to be about the unbustlingest man there is.

Especially at news conferences. He puts both hands in his pants pockets, speaks drily, unemotionally, and chooses words so carefully that at times he seems reluctant to part with them at all.

Furthermore, Dulles has spent a lifetime either at the heart or on the fringes of diplomacy. Here all the training seems to be on blunting the harsh word, and on softening the soft word until it's mushy.

And here was Dulles, with these habits and this background, trying to explain that of course he has a sense of urgency.

In his slow, methodical way, he explained that the mere fact the heads of government were attending the Paris meeting was in itself a sign of a sense of urgency.

Then Dulles said thoughtfully: "I don't know exactly what it means."

The questioning went on for 45 minutes, and as nearly as one reporter could figure, what Dulles was saying in his elongated way:

"We'll get the boys together, work out a few plays and build up some enthusiasm. Fight, team, fight!"

About as close as Dulles came was this:

"We hope for an elevation again to the conception of the importance of cooperative action."

Dulles likes to mull over phrases, and he spent considerable time today discussing and condemning meetings which wind up with an agreement in principle.

In detail, and never this bluntly, Dulles said agreements in principle don't amount to a hill of beans since each party can kill it off by objecting to details.

This was kicked around for a while, a question was tossed to Dulles, who thought for a time and then said, with a grin:

"I was about to say that in principle it was a good thing."

It fetched the only real laugh of the day.

The Democrats may argue the administration lacks a sense of urgency, but on this all can agree:

Spaghetti Goes To Shore

There are reflections of summer when canned spaghetti in tomato sauce and canned clams are combined in this supper dish. Bread sticks spread with garlic or celery salt butter and crisp salad, pumpkin chiffon tarts and coffee complete the meal.

Remember those days at the shore last summer. Lots of good fresh fish and seafood, early morning clamming and crab digging too. Now as the snow falls and the cold days are here, we can still taste the freshness of the sea, with conveniently canned foods.

Combine canned spaghetti in tomato sauce with cheese and canned clams for a delightful supper dish tonight. It will remind you of the shore and rightfully so. Both foods are flavor fresh and marry well in this dish. Set the table with a seaside feel . . . shells, coral, etc. Heat up long thin bread sticks, flavor butter with garlic or celery salt, for spreading, toss a crisp salad and serve steaming cups of coffee.

For dessert . . . pumpkin chiffon tarts.

This menu will be a recipe box favorite for it's tasty, warming and quick. Good for the busy holiday time. Here's the recipe for Spaghetti 'N Clams.

Spaghetti 'N Clams

1 clove garlic
1 can (15¼ ounces) spaghetti in tomato sauce with cheese
1 can (6½ ounces) minced clams, drained
2 tablespoons chopped parsley
2 teaspoons lemon juice
¼ teaspoon prepared mustard

Cut garlic in half; rub inside of 1-quart casserole with it. Discard. Combine remaining ingredients in casserole; blend. Bake in a hot oven (400°F.) about 20 minutes or until mixture bubbles. Makes 2 to 3 servings.

Lions on the prowl may eat 40 or 50 pounds from a kill, sleep a day and return to feasting. They remain close to the carcass to guard it from other animals until they have had their fill.

Grated Cheese Adds Heartiness To Creamy Tomato Soup

Cream of tomato cheese soup is a wise choice for school-agers' mid-day meals. From the youngsters' point of view, it's colorful and fresh tasting.

To mother, it's a soup that can be prepared quickly, yet is nourishing and completely satisfying. Grated process American cheese melted into a tangy tomato juice mixture provides good protein nutrients. With it they suggest you serve a tossed green salad, applesauce and milk.

Cream of Tomato Soup

(Four servings)

Combine 2 cups tomato juice, 2 tablespoons minced onion, 1½ teaspoons salt and 2 tablespoons sugar; simmer 15 minutes. In another pan, melt 3 tablespoons butter and blend in 2 tablespoons flour. Add 1 quart scalded milk gradually. Then slowly stir in the tomato juice; add 1 cup grated process American cheese and continue stirring until cheese is melted.

Porcupine Pears In Cranberry Sauce

3 fresh Bartlett pears
¼ cup currant jelly
2 egg whites
¼ cup sugar
¼ cup slivered almonds
2 cups cranberry sauce

Wash, halve and core pears. Fill each pear cavity with jelly. Beat egg whites until peaks begin to form, then add sugar gradually. Beat until stiff. Mound meringue on top of each pear half. Insert slivers of almonds into meringue. Bake at 350 degrees for 15 minutes, or until nicely browned. In a serving dish, put the cranberry sauce (made from fresh cranberries or the whole canned cranberries). Put the meringue pears in the cranberry sauce. Serve at once. Serves 6.

Pear And Orange Jam

4 cups ground Bartlett pears
1 orange
1 2½-ounce box powdered pectin
5 cups sugar
½ cup chopped walnuts

Peel and core about 2½ pounds fully ripe pears. Grind pears and 1 whole orange, or chop very fine. Mix well. Measure 4 cups into a large saucepan. Measure sugar and set aside. Add nuts to sugar. Stir powdered fruit pectin into fruit in saucepan and mix well. Place over high heat and stir until mixture comes to a hard boil. At once, stir in sugar and nuts. Bring to a full rolling boil and boil hard for 1 minute, stirring constantly. Remove from heat and ladle quickly into sterilized ½-pint jars. Seal according to manufacturer's directions. If foam appears on jam, skim it off with a silver spoon, before sealing. Let jars cool from 25 to 30 minutes and if fruit has tendency to float, gently shake them to distribute fruit.

Makes about 8 jars jam.

Envious Ella

There she goes again! Poor Bill. No wonder he looks detached, wishes he were somewhere else. He is sure he does the best he can for Ella. But she is always dissatisfied because her only measuring rod is her neighbors' possessions.

Ella ought to be honest with herself, try to figure out what makes her so frustrated. It isn't easy to face yourself. But it's worth a hard try. For only frustrated people are envious of others. Envy doesn't get fur coats, new cars and round-the-world trips. It only brings misery.

Bill might ask himself if he still shows Ella the little attentions every woman needs. Is he as thoughtful as he was when they were first married? The largest diamond in the world is a poor substitute for tenderness and affection.

If Ella would use her energy to make a pleasant home for Bill; if she would think in terms of Bill's needs rather than her envies, she would be a happier woman. Life is hers to enjoy if she will stop letting envy gnaw at her nerves until they scream like a tormented cat.

Split Pea Potage

1 lb. sausage links
1 lb. green split peas
2½ qts. water
2 carrots
3 onions
2 bay leaves
2-3 celery tops
2-3 sprigs parsley
Pinch cayenne
Salt and pepper

Place onions, carrots, bay leaves, celery tops, and parsley in Osterizer container. Blend until ingredients are chopped, but not too fine. Wash and drain peas. Add peas and chopped vegetables to water, using at least 6 quart kettle. Bring to a boil. Reduce heat, cover and simmer for 2 hours or until peas are mushy. Remove from heat and allow to cool. When cool, put in container of Osterizer and blend until smooth. Cut sausage into bite size pieces. Brown slowly in frying pan, drain and add to soup. Reheat soup and serve. Serves 6-8.

Meat And The Diet

Meat is outstanding for its food value and whether it be youngster or oldster, meat is almost completely digestible . . . 96 to 98 per cent is utilized by the body.

Among Seminole Indians, the yellow color symbolizes death. When a brave used in in warpaint, it meant that he considered his life over before the battle started and he had no personel considerations to keep him from fighting to th end.

Mushroom Soup Au Sherry

This soup is truly superb! It vividly illustrates what marvelous flavor sherry or cooking sherry can add to food. This soup is lovely to see — topped with snipped green parsley, sieved egg yolks and egg white slivers.

INGREDIENTS:

1 cup water
½ cup uncooked white rice
1 teaspoon salt
2 tablespoons butter or margarine
½ cup finely chopped onions
1 3-oz. can broiled chopped mushrooms
1 10½-oz. can condensed cream of mushroom soup
2 cups beef broth or stock (use bouillon cubes, if desired)
1 hard-cooked egg
¼ cup sherry or cooking sherry, if desired
Finely snipped parsley

METHOD: Put the water, rice and salt in a 2-quart saucepan. Bring to a vigorous boil over a high heat. Turn the heat down low. Cover with a lid and simmer over this low heat 14 minutes. Remove the saucepan from the heat but leave the lid on until ready to use, at least 10 minutes.

While the rice cooks, melt the butter or margarine in a 2-quart saucepan. Add the onions and mushrooms. Cook slowly, stirring occasionally, until the onions are tender and yellow, about 10 minutes.

Stir in the mushroom soup. Slowly stir in the beef broth and the cooked rice. Heat over a low heat until very hot. Stir occasionally.

Press the egg yolk through a sieve. Thinly slice the whites. Just before serving, stir in the sherry. Season to taste with salt and pepper. Thin with additional beef broth or sherry, if desired.

Serve very hot, topping each serving with some egg yolk, egg white and parsley.

This recipe makes about 6 cups of soup.

Timbuktu became a symbol for the remote and unreachable when it was a metropolis of the Sahara, a commercial hub, and center of African-Moslem culture. Long jealously guarded from Europeans, it has dwindled today in size and importance.

Salad Fine Choice For Holidays

A salad that needs no last minute preparation is a blessing to the cook, especially during the hustle and bustle of preparing holiday dinners.

Cranberry Apricot mold has the quality of being ready to turn out on lettuce leaves just before dinner is "lifted." In other words, it really doesn't require salad dressing, for cottage cheese is folded into the fruit mixture helping to create a substantial salad.

Ground raw cranberries, canned apricots and pecans lend flavor and crunchiness to the mixture. Cream style cottage cheese adds body to it. Here are the directions, as provided by the cooking experts at Meadow Gold.

Cranberry Apricot Mold

1 package lemon gelatin
3 tablespoons sugar
¼ teaspoon salt
1¼ cups hot water
¼ cup orange juice
½ cup apricot juice
2 cups raw cranberries, ground
1 cup canned apricots, drained and diced
1 cup creamy cottage cheese
½ cup chopped pecans

Dissolve gelatin, sugar and salt in hot water; stir in fruit juices and chill until slightly thickened.

When gelatin is slightly thickened, fold in fruits, cottage cheese and nuts. Pour mixture into an oiled 1½ quart mold. Chill until firm. Unfold on crisp greens. Makes 8 servings.

Serve Sundae Cake To Hungry Teen-Agers

On a hot Sunday in Illinois in 1885, the soda was omitted from the ice cream soda thus producing the very first ice cream sundae.

Now if you leave out the ice cream and substitute a big slice of cake, what do you have? A Sundae Cake, of course, a brand new dessert idea that's perfect for any number of occasions. For the teen-age party, it's ideal.

Teen-age party givers are happiest when their parents stay in the background and let them run their own show. With the Sundae Cake for dessert, the young host or hostess can set out all the fixings, letting each guest build his own Sundae Cake. For fixings, sundae makers will need maraschino cherries (both the red and the green are fun), chopped nuts of one or several varieties, whipped cream or instant whipped topping and a generous amount of chocolate flavored syrup (the new fortified syrup is a good choice.) The cake may be an angel food cake made from a mix, or it may be a pound or chiffon cake.

A less rich version of the Sundae Cake would make a fine dessert for a foursome at bridge. For this all you need are the cake and the chocolate flavored syrup. If you can work out the timing, serve the cake warm from the oven and the syrup cold from the refrigerator. For a family meal, it might be warm gingerbread and cold chocolate syrup.

In planning dessert for occasions ahead, by all means consider this variation on the ice cream sundae—the Sundae Cake. It's fun.

1 pound hamburger

Place first four ingredients in Osterized container. Run at Lo speed until ingredients are chopped, but not too fine. Place in saucepan with meat stock, hamburger salt and pepper to taste. Cover pan and bring to boil; reduce heat and simmer for 1 hour.

A Ring Of Egg Noodles Sets Off Any Filling

Sometimes the things that look the hardest to do are the easiest. A case in point is this Egg Noodle Ring which would seem to require a lot of skill but actually is a snap to prepare and turn out.

The beauty of an egg noodle ring is that the center may hold all sorts of tempting fillings. You might have chicken a la King as we have here or creamed turkey when the holiday bird has had his day. Other excellent "centers" are meat balls in tomato sauce, lamb curry, buttered carrots and small white onions, beef stew, or lobster Newburg.

This ring makes an especially handsome appearance on a buffet table, but don't wait until you have company. Pamper your family, too. It's so easy.

Egg Noodle Ring
(Makes 1 8-inch ring)

1 tablespoon salt
3 quarts boiling water
8 ounces medium egg noodles (about 4 cups)
3 eggs, beaten
1 teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper

Add 1 tablespoon salt to rapidly boiling water. Gradually add noodles so that water continues to boil. Cook uncovered, stirring occasionally, until tender. Drain in colander.

Combine noodles and remaining ingredients; mix well. Press into well-greased 8-inch ring mold. Bake in moderate oven (350°) 45 minutes, or until firm. Unmold. Fill as desired.

Cranberry Festival Maple Sauce

2 cups maple syrup
2 cups (½ lb.) fresh cranberries
¼ cup butter

Combine syrup and cranberries in saucepan. Bring to a boil and simmer slowly until berries pop open (about 5 minutes) Stir in butter and serve over pancakes while hot.

Veal Rump Roast With Chutney

As most homemakers know veal lacks fat because it is actually young beef. Slow cooking brings out its delicious flavors braising and roasting are the best methods by which veal is cooked. The difference depends on the veal cut.

In this case, the veal rump roast is cooked in a slow oven that's about 300°F. Since veal is a delicate flavored meat sauces and gravies with a more pronounced flavor are usually served with the meat. Chutney Sauce is a fruit type condiment that adds extra goodness to this meat cut.

Veal Rump Roast—Chutney Sauce

3 to 4-pound veal rump roast
4 to 6 slices bacon, if desired
Salt and Pepper
Chutney Sauce

Season the roast with salt and pepper. Place on a rack in open roasting pan. Insert a meat thermometer so the bulb reaches the center of the roast, being sure that the bulb does not rest in fat or on bone. Roast in a slow oven (300°F.) for 2½ hours or until the meat thermometer registers 170°F. Allow 25 to 35 minutes per pound for roasting. Serve with Chutney Sauce.

Chutney Sauce

1 tablespoon cornstarch
1 teaspoon lemon juice
¼ cup diced chutney

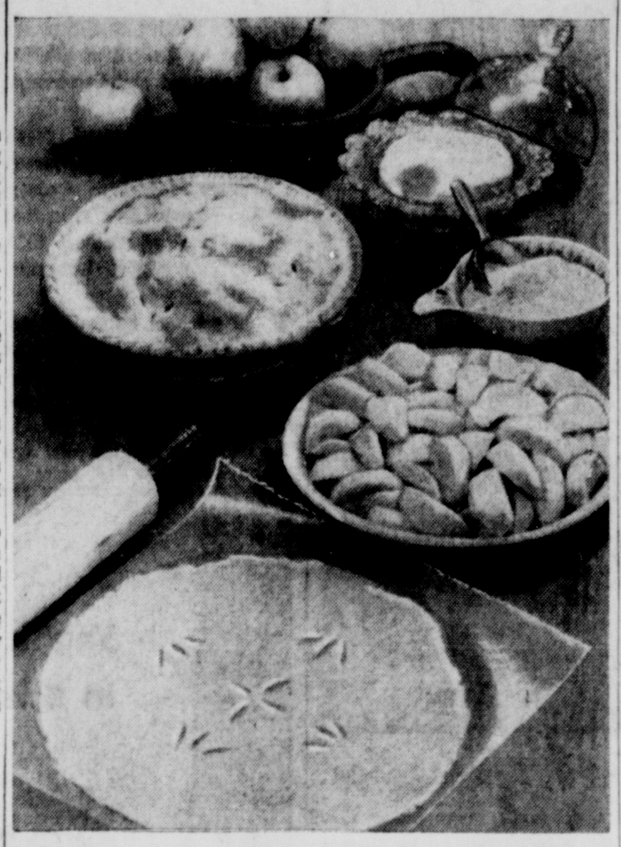
The famous patriotic painting, "Spirit of '76," was the work of Archibald M. Willard, Ohio artist and wagon decorator. It was presented to Abbot Hall, Marblehead, Mass., by General J. H. Devereux, a railroad executive whose son posed as the drummer boy.

Apple Pie the Modern Way



Roll the pie crusts to a thin one-eighth inch, slash a design on top crust, flip onto sweetened and spiced fruit to make a traditional apple pie in the modern way. Sure you'll use a cherished butter dish, a trivet or a hand carved bowl to set the mood for the meal. But from the highly developed strain of apples, uniform white flour to the golden corn oil made from hybrid corn used to shorten the pie crust, and the easy method of mixing developed in the Jane Ashley kitchens, it's a modern pie suited to modern tastes and living.

The aroma of apple pies baking, or the mere sight of a juicy wedge of sliced apple pie on a luncheon counter and appetites are whetted for the great American dssert. Whether you have yours with ice cream or cheese, like it warm or cold you'll agree that nothing adds quite so much to an apple pie as a tender flaky crust.

Apple Pie

5 to 6 cups sliced apples
1 recipe Easy Mix Flaky Pastry
2 tablespoons flour
1 cup sugar
¼ teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon ground cinnamon
2 tablespoons butter or margarine.

Pare and slice apples. Prepare pastry according to directions and line a 9-inch pie pan with one-half the pastry rolled ⅛-inch thick. Arrange apples in unbaked shell. Combine flour, sugar, salt and cinnamon. Sprinkle over apple slices. Dot with butter. Roll out remaining pastry for top crust. Make several slashes or openings in crust to permit steam to escape. Place crust over apples; seal and flute edges. Bake in hot oven (400°F.) 1 hour and 15 minutes or until crust is brown and apples tender.

Easy Mix Flaky Pastry

1 teaspoon salt
½ cup Mazola Corn Oil
5 tablespoons ice water or cold milk

Sift together flour and salt into a mixing bowl. Combine Corn Oil and ice water or cold milk in measuring cup. Beat with fork until creamy and thickened. Immediately pour all at once over entire surface of flour mixture. Toss and mix with fork to make a moist dough. Form into ball; divide into halves; then shape each half into a flat round.

Wipe tabletop with damp cloth to prevent paper slipping while rolling pastry. Place round of dough between sheets of waxed paper. Roll lightly from center to edge until dough forms a circle to fit baking dish. Peel off top paper. Flip dough onto pie pan. Fill with desired filling. Roll other round of dough. Peel off top paper. Slash openings for steam to escape. Flip dough onto pie pan over filling and trim ½-inch beyond rim of pan. Fit dough onto pan, fold edge and flute. Prick surface. Bake at temperature directed.

When baking pastry or tart shells for cooked fillings bake in hot oven (475°F.) allowing 10 to 12 minutes for 8 or 9-inch shell and 5 to 10 minutes for tart shells. Always prepare pastry just before ready to bake. Do not store.

Tuna-Stuffed Baked Potatoes

2 cans (6½ or 7 ounces each) tuna
6 medium baking potatoes
1 tablespoon butter or margarine
1½ teaspons salt
Dash pepper
1½ tablespoons grated onion
½ cup chopped parsley
¾ to 1 cup hot milk

Drain tuna. Flake. Bake potatoes in a hot oven, 425°F., for 45 to 60 minutes or until soft. Cut a slice off the top of each potato; scoop out insides. Mash potatoes. Add butter, seasonings, and hot milk; blend well. Mix in tuna. Stuff shells with the tuna-potato mixture. Sprinkle cheese over the top of each potato. Bake in a hot oven, 400°F., for 25 for 30 minutes or until heated through and cheese melts. Serves 6.

Pear Raspberry Jam

4 cups prepared fruit (about 2 pounds Bartlett pears and one 12-ounce box quick frozen raspberries)
1 tablespoon grated orange rind
6 cups sugar
½ bottle liquid fruit pectin

As the raspberries are thawing, peel, core and grind about 2 pounds (5 to 6) fully ripe pears. Measure thawed raspberries and add enough ground pears to make 4 cups prepared fruit. Place in large preserving kettle together with lemon juice and grated rind. Add sugar to fruit and mix well. Place kettle over high heat and bring to a full rolling boil. Boil hard for 1 minute, stirring constantly. Remove from heat and at once stir in liquid pectin. Ladle quickly into sterilized ½-pint jars and seal according to manufacturer's directions. Let cool for a tendency to float, gently shake 25 to 30 minutes and if fruit has the jar to distribute fruit. Makes about 8 jars jam.

Record Nest Of Eagles

Boy Scout Explorer Post 10, sponsored by LaVale Methodist Church, set a Potomac Council record last night when these six boys received their Eagle Scout awards at a court of honor. They are (left to right) Elmer Beachley Jr., Danny Moreland, William Claus, Kenneth Moreland, Arthur Williamson and Ronald Gilchrist. Potomac Council officials said no Scout unit in the council ever has had six Eagle awards presented at the same time.

Ice Skating Areas To Be Ready Tonight

Recreation Department crews began flooding the tennis court at Gephart Playground Wednesday and reported last night that several layers of ice have been built up into a good foundation for skating.

He said the ice on the pond was half an inch thick last night.

Tree Planting Conservation Plan Explained

Tree planting and timber stand improvement under the 1958 Agricultural Conservation Program were explained to office managers of seven Western Maryland Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committees at a regional meeting in Frederick.

District Forester William H. Johnson explained that the purpose of the practice to improve a stand of forest trees for erosion control, watershed protection or forestry purposes.

Federal cost sharing may be allowed for thinning, pruning crop trees, release of desirable tree seedlings by removing or killing competing and undesirable vegetation, site preparation for natural reseeding, fencing against livestock and erosion control measures on logging roads and trails.

To do thinning, pruning and release of desirable tree seedlings there must be left per acre after treatment 100 trees three inches in diameter or larger or 200 trees less than three inches in diameter, all straight, sound and disease free.

For site preparation for natural reseeding, there must be sufficient number of desirable seed trees for natural reseeding which will not restock unless brush, dense litter and other material on the forest soil is broken up or removed so that the soil is exposed and on which the seed trees will be left until the area is restocked.

No cost sharing will be allowed when merchantable products are harvested in the process of carrying out the practice unless the county committee determines that the primary purpose of the operation was improvement of the residual stand of trees.

The Federal Government, through the County Agricultural Conservation Program, will share 50 per cent of the cost of doing the improvement work.

Van Horn Not Insane, Says Neurologist

TOWSON, Md., Dec. 12 (AP)—The president of the American Neurological Assn. took sharp issue today with the diagnosis by three doctors for the defense at the murder trial of Robert Jett Van Horn for the fatal beating of his millionaire wife.

"No psychiatrist in the country can say that this man is insane," testified Dr. Israel S. Wechsler at the ninth day of the trial.

Dr. Wechler, self identified as a retired professor of neurology at Columbia University and author of text books on neurology, said he has treated "close to 3,000 epileptics" and "about 2,000 psychiatric cases."

Provides Rebuttal

His testimony for the prosecution was in rebuttal to Dr. Manfred S. Guttmacher, medical adviser to the Supreme Bench of Baltimore; Dr. William G. Cushard, chief of psychiatric services at St. Elizabeth's Hospital in Washington, and Dr. William W. Elgin, assistant medical director of Sheppard and Enoch Pratt Hospital in Baltimore. Guttmacher and Elgin both said Van Horn was in an epileptic state when he beat his wife to death June 1. Cushard described him as a psychoneurotic and in a "dissociative state."

All three said they would sign papers to commit the 53-year-old defendant to a mental institution.

Van Horn "would be discharged within a few weeks after being admitted to a hospital," predicted Dr. Wechsler. "The doctors at the hospital would ask "What is this man here for?' "

The defense made no effort to oppose testimony that Van Horn brutally beat to death his wife of two years. It concentrated on proving a plea that he was temporarily insane at the time after she hit him in the face with her pocketbook during an argument.

Dr. Wechsler said it was very difficult to determine whether Van Horn knew right from wrong at the time because there was a "question of veracity" involving "many contradictory statements."

But he added:

Knew Nature Of Act

"The man certainly knew the nature of his act when he struck the first blow."

Dr. Wechsler disputed the diagnosis of epilepsy because a person in such a seizure "can commit nothing during the attack."

Another rebuttal expert, Dr. Isadore Tuerk, superintendent of Spring Grove State Hospital, testified he could reach no other conclusion than that Van Horn killed his wife during a "rage reaction."

Dr. Tuerk said he could not agree with opinions that Van Horn suffered from epilepsy or that he is a schizophrenic.

In the end, Defense Atty. Hilary Gans had Dr. Tuerk admit that "the field of psychiatry has not yet reached the level of precise scientific clarity that some of the other sciences has reached."

War Dead Mission

TOKYO, Dec. 12 (AP)—Japan is completing arrangements for an 18-member mission to collect the remains of about 470,000 Japanese servicemen who died in the Philippines in World War II. The mission expects to leave in mid-January. Similar groups have been sent to Burma and South Pacific islands.

Students Escape Injury In Crash

Two Allegany High School students escaped injury yesterday afternoon when a tire blew out on a 1935-model car in which they were riding and the car skidded 80 feet before loosening four guard rails along Braddock Road, then skidded another 100 feet before striking a tree on the opposite side of the road.

The accident occurred about 100 yards within the city limits as the vehicle was descending Haystack Mountain. Police Officer J. Henry Stitcher and Detective Joseph H. Stitcher, who investigated, said two cars traveling west on Braddock Road also were slightly damaged by the spinning car, which was virtually demolished.

Harry G. Grimes Jr., 18, of 568 Patterson Avenue, was identified as the driver of the car. He sustained only brush burns. His passenger was Michael Goodfellow of LaVale. Police placed a reckless driving charge against Grimes because of the state property damage in the accident. The hearing has been scheduled for 10 a. m. Saturday.

Irish Victory Over Sooners Heads AP Poll

Writers Vote Game Most Spectacular Incident Of Year

By HUGH FULLERTON JR.
The Associated Press

The one college football game that impressed observers more than any other during the 1957 season was Notre Dame's 7-0 victory over Oklahoma on Nov. 16.

The 65 sports editors and writers casting ballots in the Associated Press post-season poll made this a "double." They voted it as the outstanding one-game performance by a team during the season and as the most spectacular incident of the season.

This game was a natural for spectacular doings, of course. Oklahoma had gone through 47 consecutive victories since losing to Notre Dame early in the 1953 season. The Irish, kicked around during the 1956 season, had rallied to win their first four games in 1957, then had lost to Navy and Michigan State on successive Saturdays.

62,000 Attend Game

Then came the big one, with some 62,000 spectators sitting in on the game which was to celebrate, among other things, the 50th anniversary of Oklahoma's statehood.

The fired-up Notre Dame line stopped every scoring threat by Oklahoma through three scoreless quarters. Then, with time running out, the Irish took charge. With Nick Pietrosante carrying the ball on most plays and Allen Ecuyer clearing the way, Notre Dame began to move in the third quarter.

With irresistible force the Irish moved down to the Oklahoma 3-yard marker. Then on the fourth down, with the Sooners braced to resist a line smash, Notre Dame sprang the surprise and Dick Lynch rolled out around right end and scored standing up.

Monty Stickles kicked the point and that was it. Oklahoma not only saw its record winning streak ended, but it failed to score for the first time in 123 games.

35 Pick This One

The Army-Utah game, in which Army's Bob Anderson put on a tremendous running performance and overshadowed the great passing of Utah's Lee Grosscup in a 39-33 scoring match was mentioned by six voters.

Bingham Gets Award

NEWARK, N.J., Dec. 12 (AP)—The James Lynah Memorial Award was presented tonight to William J. Bingham, former athletic director at Harvard, who retired in 1953 after 25 years.

Presentation was made by the Eastern College Athletic Conference at a dinner during its 21st annual meeting. The award is the first named in the memory of the former Cornell athletic director, who was instrumental in the formation of the ECAC.

Coach "Huck" Miers' Piedmont High Lions (2-1) will provide the opposition for Beall High's home opener. "Ebbie" Finzel's Mountaineers dropped a 77-44 decision at Keyser on Tuesday.

Keyser Hosts Valley

Keyser High (1-1) will play host to Valley High's Black Knights who also are playing .500 ball in two starts.

LaSalle High School (2-0) is idle tonight and resumes action next Tuesday by playing Beall here.

The five Potomac Valley contests on the Friday night schedule find Romney at Fort Ashby, Moorefield at Franklin, West Virginia School for the Deaf at Capon Bridge, Mathias at Petersburg and Berkeley Springs at Wardensville.

Hyndman High's Hornets will be seeking revenge for a 45-43 defeat at the hands of Meyersdale High school when the teams

Hornets Seek Revenge

Rita Kirkwood, a sharpshooting junior turned in a sensational 48-point performance for Valley High School yesterday on the Lonaconing court but that was not enough to turn back a determined Ursuline Academy sextet that emerged the winner of a 53-52 thriller as the girls basketball season got under way in Allegany county.

Miss Kirkwood slammed in a total of 21 field goals, seven in the first quarter, six in the second, five in the third and three in the fourth, and converted six of seven free throws in accounting for all but four of the points credited to the losers. Valley's 5-foot-7 jump shot artist, turned in a .500 average from the field by sinking 21 of 42 shots.

Betsy Robinette racked up 22 points for Ursuline on ten field goals and two foul goals. Celeste Madden had eight baskets and 18 points and Judy McKenty garnered 13 markers.

Pimlico Races Cancelled Because Of Frozen Track

Jockeys Vote 17-6 Against Riding; Meet Called Off

BALTIMORE, Dec. 12 (AP)—Pimlico decided to close up shop for the year ahead of schedule today because of a frozen track and balky jockeys.

After reluctantly cancelling this afternoon's program only an hour before the first race time, General Manager Lou Pondfield obtained approval of the Maryland Racing Commission to call it off completely.

Continuation of the freezing weather is forecast and the end of the Pimlico meeting already had been postponed from Saturday until next Tuesday. The track had cancelled two programs last week on account of snow.

Commission Chairman D. Eldred Rinehart said an effort will be made next year to give Pimlico the five days it is losing. The abrupt ending of horse racing in Maryland cancels out the $15,000-added Pimlico Cup scheduled for Saturday.

About 1,000 hardy fans showed up in the sub-freezing weather before todays program was cancelled. The temperature was 24 at the scheduled 1 p. m. post time and it was expected to go no higher than 28 during the afternoon. Although the forecast was slightly warmer for tomorrow, there also was a warning of a chance of more snow.

Joseph Flanagan, the steward representing the racing commission, had advised officials at 10 a. m. against racing horses on the track covered with clods of frozen mud. But Pondfield went ahead with plans to race despite a stream of scratches for horses and jockeys.

Jockeys Vote 17 to 6

He was forced to capitulate about noon when the remaining jockeys voted 17-6 against riding.

This year's cancellations were the first at the track opened in 1870, according to Pimlico officials. It first ventured into December racing in 1955 as part of a general move by Maryland tracks to avoid competition with New Jersey and New York. Bowie, as part of the movement, begins the year's racing on Feb. 12.

The current Pimlico meeting had been scheduled for 28 of the 40 days it is allowed yearly. Maryland's schedule of 280 racing programs in 1958 already has been set and Rinehart admitted it will be difficult to work in the five extra for Pimlico.

Betting Is Off

In addition to the five cancelled programs, Pimlico betting already was running behind last year. The handle for the 23 days run off was $23,290,520 compared with $24,570,525 for the same number last year.

For instance, it snowed yesterday and only $739,537 was bet. On the same date last year, the handle was $1,117,288.

Ints Prexy Pleased Over Move To Block Sunday Tilts On TV

MONTREAL, Dec. 12 (AP)—President Frank Shaughnessy of the International Baseball League said today the major leagues "have had the green light so far in rulings by the U.S. Department of Justice but now the green light may turn against them."

Shaughnessy was highly pleased over moves that may block the majors' plans for televising Sunday games.

"Now it looks as if we're getting somewhere," he said in reference to Washington reports that Reps. Celler and Keating may take antitrust action as heads of a congressional committee.

Thin Ice Wins Tropical Race As Fans Shiver

Temperatures Drop To 50s In Miami

MIAMI, Fla., Dec. 12 (AP)—Thin Ice ran the fastest mile and a sixteenth of the current Tropical Park meeting as he accounted for the featured seventh race before a cold crowd of 6,337 today.

The F. G. Rivera runner, registering his second straight victory, was timed in 1:42 4/5. He was only four fifth of a second off the track record set last year by Hoop Band.

Thin Ice, a $4.80 favorite, defeated R. B. Meitus' Lady Swords by three quarters of a length. Lady Swords was a neck in advance of Dorchester Farm Stable's Air Wonder which led Nydrie Stable's Goforward by two lengths.

John Ruane hustled Thin Ice to the front leaving the clubhouse turn and he never was headed thereafter, responding gamely to strong urging to repulse the belated bid of Lady Swords. The latter closed away from fourth place to take second money from Air Wonder which raced evenly.

Colorado Team Must Cancel Trip South If Negro Is Barred

DENVER, Dec. 12 (AP) — Democratic Gov. Steve McNichols of Colorado today ordered tax-supported Colorado State College to cancel three basketball games it has scheduled in Louisiana next week unless a Negro player is permitted to participate.

The college Board of Athletic Control immediately voted unanimously to cancel the basketball team's Christmas holiday trip, including the three games in Louisiana and two other contests.

"Either take the whole team as it is or we don't play. They are all American citizens. If they (the Louisiana schools) don't want to play the whole team, we feel justified in cancelling the games."

The governor said Colorado "does not recognize any such law" as one in Louisiana prohibiting games in which Negro and white players participate.

Giants Sign King

NEW YORK, Dec. 12 (AP) — The New York Football Giants said today they have signed their No. 1 draft choice—Phil King, Vanderbilt halfback. The National Football League club said General Manager Ray Walsh got King's signature at Nashville.

King, 21-year-old senior, is a 6-4, 210 - pounder from Dyersburg, Tenn.

Transfer Rule Is Upheld By West Virginia Court

Charles Town High Athlete Can't Play Until He's Junior

CHARLES TOWN, W. Va., Dec. 12 (AP)—Steve Williams, who tried a legal reverse when school officials blocked him from playing football, was thrown for a loss today in Jefferson County Circuit Court.

The 15-year-old sophomore athlete was told he won't be allowed to play basketball or baseball, either. Not until he becomes a junior at Charles Town High.

Williams, a six-footer weighing about 160 or 165, had asked the court to overrule the Board of Appeals of the West Virginia Secondary Schools Activities Commission.

The board had ruled him ineligible for sports during the 1957-58 school year because he is a transfer student from New York City.

The youngster contended in his suit against the board that the general ruling should not apply in his case because he had attended Jefferson County schools all his scholastic life, except for one year in New York. He had moved there with his father after his parents were divorced, then returned to live with his mother when the father moved from New York.

Judge Decatur H. Rodgers ruled the board acted within its wide discretionary powers in declaring Williams ineligible and he had no authority to interfere with its decision.

Attorneys for the boy, who is a football back, baseball catcher and basketball forward, said they were considering an appeal to the State Supreme Court of Appeals.

It was a repeat performance for Adkins, a Vol senior. He is the third Tennessee player to win the award two years in a row. Others were Sam Bartholomew, 1938-39 winner, and Billy Bevis, 1944-45.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 12 (INS)—If "Summer Place," Sloan Wilson's new book, does as well as the author's "Man in the Gray Flannel Suit," Jack Warner will have picked himself off a winner.

He bought the film rights from the galleys, for close to $300,000 plus a percentage. But he was not taking much chance because the Literary Guild has selected it as book of the month, an Simon and Schuster, the publishers, have already been paid $100,000 for the serialization rights by McCall's magazine. Sloan Wilson will, himself, write the adaptation.

Jack is really going all out to buy these new books. This is the second one he's bought within a matter of weeks.

The one person who held out on Jackie Coogan when he tried to obtain clearances for his life story was Charlie Chaplin. In a letter from Chaplin's attorney, Jackie was refused permission to use the name Chaplin.

This is not stopping Jackie now, who will put an entirely different interpretation on the Chaplin character. It was the comedian who discovered Coogan when he was five years old, and is important to the Coogan biography.

"The Billy Sunday Story" isn't going to be made without litigation unless the two opposing parties can get together. My story stated that George A. Sunday, grandson of Ma and Billy Sunday, gave Helen Bilki the right to negotiate. That's perfectly true—I have seen the contract, dated Nov. 1, 1957.

But now here comes the Reverend Lee Thomas to whom Ma Sunday gave the rights to her husband's story on July 13, 1955. An evangelist, the Reverend Thomas was a very good friend of Mrs. Sunday.

He has retained Irving Glickfeld, Ernie Borgnine's attorney, to represent him. I am told, according to Mrs. Sunday's will, her grandson George gets a certain percentage after the picture is made.

Once again we will be hearing the voice of Princess Grace (Kelly). Millions of listeners on four continents will have the opportunity of hearing Her Serene Highness of Monaco on the United Nations half-hour broadcast which the major networks in the English and French speaking countries will transmit at Christmas time.

Princess Grace will talk about the plight of more than 55,000 refugees wandering throughout Europe and will make a special appeal in their behalf. A philharmonic orchestra composed entirely of Hungarian refugees will furnish the musical interludes.

Aly Khan will be here in January to see Kim Novak, who receives telephone calls every few days from the charming Aly. This, according to word from London.

The legendary island that Erroll Flynn owns in Port Antonio off Jamaica has been sold, which is an indication that the dashing Flynn will move back here. His little 5-year-old daughter, Arnelle, who speaks only French and Spanish, will go to a Hollywood kindergarten to learn to speak English.

At the next table were Jimmy Van Heusen, Murray Woolf and a group of song writers. They came to our table and I found out which records sell and which are in the no-sale category.

Natalie Wood and Bob Wagner were having dinner, also at the Capri, with Mary Anita and Dick Sale. Natalie was proudly displaying her new ring and she whispered that she is being given a shower by Mary Anita.

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 diam.	2 diams.	3 diams.	3 spades
4 diams.	4 spades	5 diams.	5 spades
6 diams.	Double	Pass	Pass
Pass

Opening lead: King of spades.

Lack of cooperation between the defenders in today's hand resulted in a four figure loss.

The bidding was fast and furious. When South finally bid six diamonds, he thought he was taking a cheap sacrifice against his vulnerable opponents. Actually it would have taken a club lead on his part to defeat six spades.

West opened the king of spades and a one trick set appeared imminent as there seemed to be no way to avoid losing two club tricks. However, declarer ruffed in dummy, returned to his hand with a trump, and ruffed another low spade in dummy.

He then proceeded to lead a procession of trumps, all but one. His purpose was to make West guess what to keep. If West could be induced to part with a couple of clubs in an effort to protect hearts, the number of club losers might be reduced.

To further his purpose, declarer attempted to set up some kind of mirage by first discarding two clubs from dummy. Coming down to four cards, declarer retained one trump and three clubs to the queen. With a discard yet to make, West held ace-queen of hearts and ace-jack-ten of clubs. Reluctant to blank the ace of hearts, West let go the ten of clubs, and a low club lead by declarer established the suit with the loss of one trick.

West attempted to explain away his discard by pointing out that he was protecting against the holding of king and two small hearts in the South hand.

With cooperation between the defenders it should not have been difficult to break the contract. East should discard methodically instead of letting go a lot of spades indiscriminately. As declarer proceeds with the drawing of trumps, East should clear his hand of one suit (clubs). When he discards two and then starts shedding spades it should be clear that he has no more clubs. South becomes marked with three clubs and the defense becomes automatic.

To mend a large hole in thick wool that does not ravel, use a darned-in patch rather than one that is hemmed or overlapped. Trim the hole to make it square or rectangular and cut a patch of exactly the same size. Baste the patch to net, fit the hole over the patch and baste net to the piece being mended. Then darn the patch into place, overlapping at corners.

Singers To Present Annual Christmas Cantata Dec. 17

KEYSER—The annual Christmas Cantata, one of the most popular programs of the college year, featuring the "Babe Of Bethlehem," an inspiring selection of music in four parts by Harvey Gaul, will be presented by the Potomac State Singers Tuesday, December 17 at 11 a. m. in the auditorium at the college.

The program is under direction of Leonard G. Withers, head of the college music department.

The Christmas convocation will mark the first appearance of the Singers on the campus this year. They presented the same program for the local Rotary Club on Thursday. The soloists and several members of the Singers will assist the Lutheran Church choir and present the same cantata at the regular morning service on Sunday, December 15.

As the program opens, the choral group will enter the auditorium singing "O Come, O Come, Emmanuel," an 8th century melody. The cantata tells the Christmas story of the Prophecy, and it unfolds to reveal the annunciation, shepherds and the birth of Jesus.

The program will conclude with the recessional by the Singers singing the favorite old carol, "O Come All Ye Faithful."

The cantata will be presented by the entire chorus, the women's chorus, men's chorus and soloists. Those who have been selected for solo parts are Nils Johnneson, Patricia Nuzum, Frances Hartman, Arbutus Kinney, Carolyn Smith and John Brown.

Mrs. Barger, the mother of the youngest member, has been and is associated with Scouting as a Brownie leader in Keyser.

Adult Brownie leadership was represented by Mrs. James Rafter and Mrs. Eugene Suter, both of Piedmont. Mrs. Suter has been a leader for ten years.

College Geography Teacher Honored

FROSTBURG — Dr. Robert T. Novak, instructor at State Teachers College has been informed that an article written by him, entitled "A New Approach to the Teaching of Geography" has been accepted for publication in "The Journal of Geography," a monthly publication of the National Council of Geography Teachers.

Dr. Novak's article is a writeup of an experiment he conducted in teaching a class during the fall term, 1957-58. Deviating from the lecture method, Dr. Novak conducted the class primarily through student-teacher planning.

West Virginians Promised Better Road Conditions

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Dec. 12 (AP)—The State Road Commission bureau of highway information forecast better conditions for West Virginia motorists—unless more snow falls.

R. M. Lorentz, head of the bureau, said roads throughout the state were generally improved late today following some thawing.

Earlier, the information bureau reported that 4 of the Road Commission's 10 districts required tire chains for effective travel. The districts comprise 19 counties, mostly in the eastern part of the state.

Child Study Group Meets December 17

A questionnaire distributed at the first meeting in November will be the main topic for discussion.

At the initial meeting Mrs. Florence Snelson, Midland, made a brief talk and gave an outline of the subject under discussion, "Your Child and His Peers."

Mrs. Violet Daddysman is chairman and Mrs. Betty Brundige, recorder, of the group.

Army Trucks To Haul Mail At Piedmont

Capt. Henry E. Wilt, commanding officer of Battery C, 201st Armored Field Artillery here, reported that "the adjutant general of West Virginia has approved Postmaster Patrick J. Healey's request for loan of Army vehicles to expedite delivery of U. S. mail during the holiday rush."

Military vehicles will be made available by the local unit as soon as they can be picked up by the Post Office Department.

Wilt stated the National Guard will assist worthwhile projects that benefit the community.

Drivers for the vehicles are to be provided by the Piedmont Post Office, and must be qualified to operate the assigned cargo carriers.

Frostburg Sets Christmas Lighting Program Sunday

AAUW Music Group Making Arrangements

FROSTBURG — The annual Frostburg Community Christmas tree lighting program will be held Sunday at 5:45 p. m. in front of the tree located in the church yard of St. Paul's Lutheran Church at the corner of Main and Water Street.

The large spruce tree, donated by Joseph Durst, Frost Avenue, was set up last week by workmen of the Potomac Edison Company.

Earl Miller, of tthe American Legion, and his committee will complete the decorating of the tree and have it ready for the lighting ceremony Sunday.

Beginning at 5:45 p.m. chimes of the First Methodist Church will announce the start of the program. Following the invocation by the Rev. Edward A. Godsey, pastor of First Methodist the Arion Band will play several selections of Christmas music. Mayor Joseph James will extend the greetings of the city to the group and throw the switch to light the tree.

A men's chorus under the direction of David Dorman, will sing "Angels from the Realms of Glory" and "O Come All Ye Faithful."

The audience will join in singing the following carols, "It Came Upon A Midnight Clear," "O Little Town of Bethlehem," "Away in the Manger," "Joy to the World" and "Silent Night." The benediction will be given by Rev. Paul Caravetta, pastor of First Presbyterian Church.

The annual program for the lighting of the community tree is planned by the music group of the American Association of University Women, Frostburg-Georges Creek Branch, with Miss Estelle C. Williams, chairman. Also participating in the ceremony will be representatives from all churches of the community, Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, Teen Town, and fraternal organizations.

Eckhart Man Makes Record Catch

Brooke Lancaster of Eckhart, is shown here while vacationing in Florida, just after he caught a six-foot, two-inch Sail Fish after a 30-minute struggle. Lancaster is at the right, and a companion, Bud Solomons who also made a record catch is at the left. Kneeling is Capt. Tommie Schoen, their host at Marathon. Capt. Schoen said Lancaster caught the Sail from a Drift fishing party boat, an unusual feat, since this type is usually caught while trolling. Lancaster was presented several Rudy Schaefer Fishing Citations for his catches of Sail, Kingfish, Mutton Snapper and Yellowtail.

The intellectual and spiritual revival that came to be known as the Renaissance had its first flowering in Italy.

To Italian painters, this burst of energy brought new curiosity about the world of nature and new means of representing life in all its varied forms. The scenes connected with the coming of Christ—His humble birth at Bethlehem, the simple worship of lowly shepherds and the homage of the kings—offered them a special opportunity to paint the whole range of human experience—from poverty and touching affection to Oriental splendor and pageantry.

The pictures reproduced here differ from each other enormously in their way of imagining the holy people and the events surrounding the Nativity. They range from the lyric loveliness of Giorgione, the Venetian, to the simple setting and rich maturity of the famous Titian, with others represented by Raphael, Fra Angelico and Mantegna.

The Renaissance Christmas Story

The Madonna of the Chair, by Raphael (1483-1520). This famous painting now hangs in the Pitti Gallery in Florence, Italy.

The Adoration of the Shepherds, by Mantegna (1431-1506). It now hangs in the Metropolitan Museum of Art, New York.

The Nativity, by Fra Angelico (1387-1455). Painting is in the San Marco Museum, Florence, Italy.

Frostburg Bond Ruling Reversed

Appeals Court Says Cities May Finance Factory Buildings

ANNAPOLIS, Dec. 12 (AP) — The Court of Appeals ruled today that the Legislature may authorize a city to issue municipal bonds for construction of a factory to be used by private industry.

The high court reversed an Allegany County Circuit Court ruling which said an amendment to the Frostburg city charter enacted by the 1953 Legislature was unconstitutional and invalid.

The decision reversing lower court was 3-1 with Judge Stedman Prescott dissenting. Judge William Horney, newly appointed to the Court of Appeals, did not hear arguments in the case.

The disputed legislation, which the appellate court has said is valid, authorized the city to enter into an agreement with any manufacturing company for purchase of lands or buildings on an installment plan covering a period up to 25 years. The law authorized the city to issue municipal bonds, subject to the approval of voters and not to exceed $100,000, for the purpose of constructing such factory facilities.

Ruled Invalid Here

Circuit Judge George Henderson had ruled the legislation invalid and unconstitutional because it authorized the use of public funds for a private purpose.

In reversing this opinion, the high court majority said the disputed legislation "is not beyond the bounds of legislative power."

"So long as the legislation has a substantial relation to the public welfare and can fairly be said to serve a public purpose, it is not the courts' function to strike it down, merely because we fear it may lead to unwise or unfortunate results," the majority opinion said.

Several municipalities other than Frostburg, including Lonaconing in Allegany County and an Eastern Shore city, have similar charter amendments and were awaiting the high court's ruling before proceeding with bond issue elections.

Files "Friendly" Suit

The question arose in a "friendly" suit filed by William S. Jenkins to bar a special election set for last March 30. The election, which was blocked by Judge Henderson's ruling, would have determined whether the city should issue $100,000 worth of bonds for a site and building to be leased to the Cumberland Undergarment Co.

The high court decided to consider the validity of the enabling act even though the time for the election had passed.

"It is the general rule," the majority opinion said, "that the public funds of municipalities cannot properly be devoted to private use, even when expressly authorized by the Legislature."

But the court quoted from a Supreme Court ruling in a similar case which said that "whether the present expenditure serves a public purpose is a practical question addressed to the lawmaking department, and it would require a plain case of departure from every public purpose that could reasonably be conceived to justify the intervention of a court."

Cite Public Benefits

The court took judicial note "of the fact that the location of new industry in a municipality furnishes employment and measurably increases the resources of the community and its financial well-being."

"The fact that incidental benefits are passed on to the locating corporation is not fatal, if there are substantial public benefits to support the action taken," the opinion said.

The majority ruling said that attraction of new industries to this state by means of tax exemptions has been recognized as within the legislative power for many years and "we see no real difference between the tax exemptions there created, and that in the instant case."

Judge Prescott, in his dissenting opinion, noted that the bonds would have to be redeemed by taxation.

He said the action permitted by the majority decision will be "the utilization of taxation for private purposes and will contravene an explicit inhibition of the constitution that the credit of the state shall not in any manner be given, or loaned to, or in aid of any individual, association or corporation."

The judge said this constitutional prohibition against the state is applicable to all subdivisions of the state.

He said the majority ruling "will strike a terrific blow to private enterprise . . . and with the government of Maryland and all its municipalities in business, it is difficult to visualize the boundaries to which the principle may extend."

Aftermath Of Fire

This is how a bedroom at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Aubrey Chambers on Mason Road looked yesterday after flames gutted the upper story of the house and made the downstairs uninhabitable. Firemen from two volunteer companies fought the fire in 20-degree weather, and had to break through two inches of ice in a nearby creek to get water. Note icicles on electric bulb fixture at upper right. The Chambers family are staying with their landlord for the time being.

Friday 13th Superstition Dates From Mythology

By ALBERT D. DARBY
News Staff Writer

Today is that so-called bad luck day again—Friday the 13th.

Nobody seems to know for sure why today is supposed to bring bad luck but the Cumberland Free Public Library has several volumes which shed some light on the question.

Friday comes from the Anglo-Saxon word Frigedaeg, which means Freyja's Day. Freyja was the goddes of love in Norse mythology. She was fond of music, flowers and spring. Her beautiful chariot was supposed to have been drawn by cats. However, in ancient Scandinavia, Friday was considered the luckiest day of the week.

Ever since the crucifixion of Christ on a Friday, a superstition has developed against that day. Friday also has been called hangman's day because it was once the custom to choose that day for the execution of criminals. It is because of Friday's connection with the cruifixion that it is observed as a fast day i Roman Catholic, Anglican and Greek churches.

The superstition surrounding the 13th apparently stems from the stories about the ill-fate that accompanies any dinner party which 13 persons attend.

This superstition apparently dates from Norse mythology. In their mythology Valhalla was the great hall of the dead heroes. The yarn goes that one Loki attended a banquet at Valhalla, making 13 at the dinner. Balder, one of the guests, was slain.

Here again this superstition is linked to another event in the life of Christ. Thirteen at dinner are frowned upon because of the Last Supper of Christ with his 12 Apostles.

In Italy a lottery never uses the number 13 and in Paris no house bears that number. What's more in Paris there are persons called quatourziemes who are made a 14th at dinner.

Sailors are particularly superstitious about the 13th. They strongly object to leaving port on the 13th of the month, especially if it happens to be a Friday. They also are apprehensive about the 13th voyage.

Today is the second Friday the 13th for 1957. The first was in September. The only one next year will be in June. Come 1959 there will be three Fridays the 13th. They will fall in February, March and November.

New Oakland School To Be Dedicated

Dennett Road Elementary School at Oakland will be formally dedicated Sunday afternoon at 2:15 o'clock, according to Willard L. Hawkins, Garrett County superintendent of schools, and the 380 children enrolled at the old Annex building will move Monday.

Immediately after the Monday noon hour, each teacher will take his pupils to the new Dennett building by school bus, Mr. Hawkins said. There each class will find a new room fully equipped with new furniture, wardrobes, show windows, and book shelves. The first cafeteria meal will be served in the all-purpose room on Tuesday.

The only equipment to be taken from the old Annex to the new building will be books and instructional materials. This will be loaded on the bus as each group moves.

Mr. Hawkins said if the move is made as promptly and efficiently as planned, school will dismiss Monday at the usual time. There will be some minor adjustments in school bus schedules, he noted, especially for buses hauling both elementary and high school students.

Landmark Abandoned

Abandonment of the old Annex building for class room purposes is of considerable interest in Oakland and Garrett County to many parents of children now in school, for this was the building where many of them spent their high school days. The structure was condemned for school use many years ago.

The old building is to be renovated beginning January 1, with the front part to be used for offices for the Board of Education. Other sections will be used for storage. This work is to be completed about May 1. The Board of Education offices will then be moved from crowded quarters in the Garrett County Court House, and space now occupied in the Court House will be used by the county, where many offices are crowded.

Furniture in the old Annex is to be checked and that which can be refurbished will be repaired and moved to the Grantsville School next summer.

The dedication ceremony Sunday afternoon will be followed by an open house, and the public is invited to tour the grounds and building, Mr. Hawkins stated.

The dedicatory address will be delivered by Dr. W. S. Patterson, pastor of St. Paul's Methodist Church of Oakland. Merritt Feather, president of the Dennett Road School Parent Teacher Association, will preside. The audience will sing "Maryland My Maryland" and Rev. Ross Speicher will offer the invocation. The Dennett Road School Glee Club will offer selections, after which Dr. Ralph Calandrella of Kitzmiller, president of the Garrett County School Board, will present the keys to the principal, Foster A. Riggs.

Police Report Robbery Try Near Bedford

City and State police here were asked to be on the lookout for a small young man wearing a brown leather jacket who fled after attempting to rob a waitress at the Beechwood Inn, about eight miles south of Bedford, Pa., on U. S. Route 220.

Pennsylvania State Police were stymied in their efforts because the robbery attempt, which occurred about 6 a. m. yesterday, was not reported for five hours. The proprietor apparently felt there was no need to report the incident because the robbery was unsuccessful, police said.

The man, described as being 19 or 20 years old, five feet tall, weighing 125 pounds, wearing no hat and a brown leather jacket, approached the waitress with a black revolver in his right hand and a paper bag in his left hand.

After telling the waitress to 'hand it over or I'll shoot," the young man fled when the waitress called the proprietor. He reportedly was traveling toward Cumberland after the incident, and had a paper bag covering his license tag.

There is no change in the deadline for church notices of Sunday, December 22. To be included in the regular Saturday page, they must be in the Times-News office no later than 11 p. m. Thursday, December 19.

Mason Road Dwelling Is Gutted By Fire

Firemen of Bedford Road and Baltimore Pike fire companies yesterday battled in sub-freezing weather a fire which destroyed most of a two-story dwelling on Mason Road.

The fire companies received calls yesterday about 10:30 a.m. to the residence, which was occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Aubrey Chambers and their 10-year-old son Jerry.

The family, downstairs at the time the fire started, noticed smoke coming down from the second floor where two bedrooms were located.

A member of the Bedford Road company, David Ferguson, was injured by a piece of glass while fighting the fire and was treated for a lacerated hand at Memorial Hospital.

Most of the five-room frame building was gutted by the blaze which was fanned by a strong wind. Firemen and others saved the furniture on the first floor, but all the furniture, clothing and personal belongings were lost on the second level.

David Wilson, assistant fire chief of the Bedford Road unit, said the cause of the blaze has not yet been determined but it is believed it started in the flue on the second floor.

By the time firemen arrived on the scene, Mr. Wilson said, the heavy smoke which was pouring down from the upstairs made it impossible for the firefighters to mount the steps to get at the blaze.

Mr. Wilson added that two hoses which were placed in the creek about 550 feet from the dwelling were used for about three hours to fight the fire.

Bedford Road Fire Company sent five men to answer the call, while five men from Baltimore Pike were on hand until about 2:30 p.m.

The property is owned by Ralph Ferguson, who resides nearby. The gutted dwelling was partially covered by insurance.

Neighbors at the scene said Mrs. Chambers had been ill for six months. The homeless family are reported to be staying with their landlord for the time being.

City Bond Plan Argued Before Appeals Court

Rulings Are Sought On Two Questions

ANNAPOLIS, Dec. 12 (AP) — The Court of Appeals was asked today if the city of Cumberland may legally change the date set in an ordinance for the sale of a $500,000 urban redevelopment bond issue.

The sale was set for last May but was held up when petitions were filed asking for a referendum on the bond issue. While the validity of the petitions was being tested in court, the city amended the original ordinance to give the City Council authority to fix a new date for the bond sale.

Now the question is whether the original ordinance is valid, since the sale date set by it has passed. Also, can the ordinance amendment, passed after the referendum was requested, be made a part of the referendum question?

Is "Friendly" Suit

The high court was asked to answer these questions raised in a suit seeking a declaratory judgment on the validity of the bond issue. The suit was a "friendly" taxpayer's suit brought by Cumberland businessman Owen E. Hitchins against the Mayor and Council.

The case came here on appeal from Allegany County Circuit Court where Chief Judge George Henderson ruled the bond issue ordinance was valid. Judge Henderson said the listing of a date for the bond sale in the original ordinance was immaterial, and he ruled the bonds could be issued anytime within four years, a time limit set in the ordinance.

No date has been set for the referendum, pending the outcome of this appeal.

Request Ruling

The home rule legislation under which Cumberland authorized the bond issue provides that such an ordinance shall contain "the form of notice soliciting bids . . . which shall set forth the date. . ."

Both sides asked the appellate court to decide whether the word "shall," as used by the Legislature, was mandatory or merely directory. It was suggested the Legislature meant the form of notice should be included in the ordinance with the date left blank.

Thomas B. Finan, Cumberland city solicitor who presented the arguments for the mayor and council, said the case was making "a mountain out of a molehill" because the change of date "does not affect the materiality or substance of the ordinance."

Matter Of Form

Finan said the date was a "matter of form" and the Legislature provided that bond issue ordinances may permit municipal executives to make "modifications in the forms of such ordinances . . . as will not alter the substance."

The city solicitor said that setting a date of sale in the ordinance shackles the mayor and council and prevents them from picking the best time to offer their bonds on the fluctuating market. He said he thinks it was the Legislature's intent to make the sale date an administrative matter.

Atorneys William C. Walsh and William Walsh presented arguments for Hitchins.

Lawrence R. Dehn To Leave In January

The board of directors of Central YMCA last night accepted the resignation of Lawrence R. Dehn, program secretary of the local youth organization, effective January 15.

Mr. Dehn, who has served as program secretary here for the past three years, will become executive secretary of the Fairfax County-Falls Church (Va.) branch of the Washington, D. C., YMCA.

His new position will include organization, program, youth work and a capital funds campaign for the affiliate of the Washington YMCA.

Mr. Dehn came to Cumberland in November 1954 from Gloucester County (N. J.) YMCA where he served three years as executive secretary.

While in Cumberland, Mr. Dehn was instrumental in expanding the work of the Hi-Y and Tri-Hi-Y groups throughout the county from six clubs to the present 14 councils.

In addition to work at Central YMCA, Mr. Dehn was active in civic affairs, is a member of the Cumberland Rotary Club and is an honorary member of the local Optimist Club. He also is a member of First Presbyterian Church.

Many new programs were introduced at the local "Y" by Mr. Dehn during his stay here, and the youth membership has grown to 1,080 members. He also was active in youth work in Cresaptown, and provided trips for junior boys to Camp Speers in the Pocono Mountains in Pennsylvania.

He began his service with the YMCA in 1925 and served in various positions with the YMCA organization in New Jersey.

Mrs. Dehn, who is employed at the Cumberland Free Public Library, will join her husband in Fairfax County in June, after their son, Warren, graduates from Allegany High School. The Dehns have a daughter, Lois Virginia, who lives in Englewood, N. J.

Gusty winds which swept through the area yesterday added to the discomfort caused by the bitter cold.

Baltimore St. Bridge To Be Open By 5 P. M.

Temporary Trestle To Be Used Today

The Western Maryland Railway expects to finish laying temporary tracks across the Baltimore Street crossing today and to open the crossing to vehicular traffic before the 5 p. m. rush.

Track crews encountered tough going yesterday in near zero weather but completed all of the project except for laying the rails at the crossing and blacktopping the area used by vehicles.

Both jobs are slated to get under way this morning.

The completion of the run-around track today will also mark the beginning of use of the temporary trestle which will be used while a new railroad bridge is built over Wills Creek.

Speed Limit Set

Trains will cross the run-around track and temporary trestle on slow orders of not more than 10 miles an hour.

Early next week, railway crews will begin removing rails from the old Western Maryland Railway bridge so the Hazelwood Construction Company can begin demolishing the span and work on foundations of the new steel railway span.

Western Division track crews installed a switch at the west end of the temporary trestle and had laid track over the span early this week, and on Wednesday began laying track over the crossing.

Ground Frozen

Meanwhile, the city has had slats nailed on the wooden deck of the temporary Baltimore Street Bridge to halt skidding.

County Voters Number 36,144 After Removals

Allegany County had only 36,144 registered voters as of November 30 as the Board of Election Supervisors removed 4,013 names of voters who had failed to cast a ballot in the past five years in a state or county election.

The net loss for the month was 4,012.

Besides the 4,013 non-voters removed there were 102 removed because of death and 11 at their own request. Offsetting the removals were the names of 114 new registrants.

Democrats made some inroads in the Republican margin as a result of new registration activity. Among the 114 who registered during November at the Court House were 63 Democrats (40 men and 23 women), 48 Republicans (26 men and 22 women) and three men who declined to list political affiliation.

A few voters switched political parties before the November 20 deadline and the Republicans benefitted from this action. Eleven previously registered as Democrats switched to the GOP and only one Republican became a Democrat.

The 36,144 registered voters as of November 30 included 35,802 white persons and 342 Negroes. There are 20,590 Republicans (10,436 men and 10,154 women), 15,301 Democrats (7,907 men and 7,394 women), 241 independents (173 men and 68 women), 10 Socialists (six men and four women) and two members of other parties, one man and one woman.

Meanwhile, Irvin J. Neat, Republican registrar, reminded prospective candidates for next year's primary election that all of them will have to pay a filing fee.

Previously, no fee was required for candidates for the state central committees of the two parties or for delegates to conventions. Henceforth they will have to pay a $10 fee. All other candidates, for jobs paying $300 or over, must pay a $25 filing fee.
